FARMERS WATCH HOOVER SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE

Secretary's Talk May Prove Turning Point of His Campaign in Middle West

REVEALS DEFINITE PLAN

Farm Relief Is Economic Not Political Problem, Hoover Tells Friends

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1928 Post Pub. Co.)

Washington — The Hoover speech of acceptance may prove the turning point in his campaign in the middle west.

Governor Hammill of Iowa, who announced that he would support Mr. Hoover, and Governor MacMullen of Nebraska, who wants to see the speech of acceptance first, are indicating the course that other Republican leaders may follow who have been identified with the McNary-Haugen fight. This is because Secretary Hoover has explained to a number of people already that he regards farm relief as an economic and not a political problem and intends to reveal in his speech of acceptance definite plan for its solution.

Before Mr. Hoover left here, he made it clear to friends that he thought the speech of acceptance was the occasion and opportunity to amplify the Republican platform. In other words he believes the platform is a statement of principles and that it is up to him as leader to give a formula which in a general way will foreshadow the kind of legislation he favors.

NO DEFINITE ALTERNATIVE

Mr. Hoover realizes that much of the antagonism toward the Coolidge administration over the veto of the McNary-Haugen bill was that no definite alternateive was presented by the administration. The farmers, he believes are not wedded to any particular plan and are ready to accept any that achieves a result. With this in mind, Mr. Hoover is assuming that the McNary-Haugen formula is dead and that an altogether different approach is needed in order to band together all the elements that really want a solution. If the administration next time should get back of a farm relief bill, whether that administration is Republican or Democratic, it will pass. For there is a majority of votes ready to approve any bill that seeks to accomplish what the McNary-Haugen bill sought to do.

Mr. Hoover feels that the agricultural problem is primarily one of organization and that the industry must be assisted by the government to help itself. He is ready to go further than any plan yet proposed in bringing the farm co-operatives into coordination with the non-co-operative groups but he does not favor any government subsidy or government tax or equalization fee. The big thing, he thinks, is to get started on organizing agriculture, and when once this is accomplished, a plan for orderly marketing of the surplus will be effectively developed.

DON'T WANT TO BOLT

The consensus of opinion among political leaders here is that many of the so-called revolting farmers in the middle west are aching for a chance to go along with their traditional party and that if the speech of acceptance by Mr. Hoover gives them the slightest encouragement, they will not bolt. But even if it fails to satisfy all the McNary-Haugenites, it may succeed in dividing them.

So far as electoral votes are concerned it would take a revolt of large proportions to overturn the vast Republican majorities in the middle west. What Mr. Hoover hopes to do is to reduce the dissent to a negligible number. And his speech of acceptance will definitely reveal that objective.

OBREGON SUPPORTERS TO NAME SUCCESSOR

CHILDREN CHEER CAL AND HOOVER AT DULUTH

Crowds of school children cheered Nominee Herbert Hoover and President Coolidge on the streets of Duluth, Minn., just before Hoover departed for the west coast after a visit with the president at Brule, Wis.

Sick Folks Made Happy By Flowers

A trip through a hospital makes one realize that here, more than any place else, is hard reality, that here is where there is real suffering and sorrow. As you walk down the polished floors, treading silently so as not to disturb the ominous silence, you become—conscious that through each half-open door you are viewing persons who have been deprived of health, perhaps for only a few weeks, perhaps forever. Some of these patients are reasonably happy while they are confined—the hours from 2 to 5 and from 7 to 8 are crowded with visitors, most of whom bring flowers, fruit and books. Their rooms are cheerful, the bureau is banked with flowers and the letter-strewn table shows that the patient is still interested in the outside world.

But often, sometimes every fourth door, there are rooms where silence and bareness seem to stalk. The patient is alone, usually lying on his back gazing at the ceiling, nothing disturbs the white expanse of the white bureau cover and outside of a half-filled glass of water and perhaps a watch, the table is bare. These are the people who need flowers and the only way they can have them is through the kindness of some person who has flowers to spare in his garden. Pick some of your flowers, wrap them in thin paper and by calling the Post-Crescent flower car before 8.15 Saturday morning be responsible for blotting out the bareness of one of these rooms.

Call 543 for the Appleton flower cars, which carry cheer to the patients at St Elizabeth hospital; Neenah 24 or Menasha 212 for flowers for the Theda Clark hospital; and Kaukauna 470 or 238, Little Chute 23, or Kimberly 23 for flowers for the Riverside Sanatorium.

Appleton Man Killed In Richland Center Accident

C. A. Thomas, 36, 1312 W. Prospect-ave, a trucking contractor, was killed Wednesday afternoon at Richland Center when a heavy truck loaded with crushed limestone rolled off State Highway 80, crushing his abdomen and skull. Mr. Thomas lived about 10 minutes after the accident.

The body now is at Richland Center and will be taken to Coon Valley, the home of Mrs. Thomas, for burial.

AWAIT PROSECUTOR IN SHOOTING CASE

Facts in Fransway Slaying Will Be Put Before Assistant District Attorney

No action had been taken Friday against Lyman B. Underwood, 314 E Hancock-st, who late Wednesday night accidentally shot and killed Raymond Fransway, 46, 802 N. Durkee-st, pending the arrival of Stanley A. Staidl, assistant district attorney, from Chicago.

Acting District Attorney Oscar J. Schmiege said Mr. Staidl was expected from Chicago Friday afternoon and the facts would be placed before him. Mr. Schmiege said he believed some proceedings would be started against Underwood.

Underwood shot and killed Fransway, who was seeking "night crawlers" for fishing bait in the garden in the rear of Underwood's home, believing him to be a burglar. Mrs. Lucile Van Wyck, a niece of Fransway who lives in the apartment next to Underwood, aroused him, when she saw her uncle's flash light moving about the garden in the rear of the house. She was alarmed and thought he was a burglar.

Underwood told police he called and didn't hear Fransway answer. He said he intended to shoot into the air but became confused and shot Fransway in the jaw. Police are not pressing Underwood.

Funeral services for Mr Fransway will be held at 8:30 Saturday morning from the home and at 9 o'clock at St Theresa church. Interment will be in St. Mary cemetery.

"A proper outlet to and from the sea," the communication said, "will insure new growth, new activity and a degree of prosperity greater than it has ever been known in this wonderful region."

EXPECT CALLES WILL CONTINUE AS PRESIDENT

Homes of Prominent Obregon Men Guarded as Police Hunt "Intellectuals"

Mexico City — (AP)—A congress made up mainly of supporters of Obregon will meet in special session on July 30 presumably to settle the question of presidential succession raised by his assassination.

It is generally expected that a way will be found to continue President Calles in office. A nine-day period of mourning will be observed throughout Mexico in the meantime for the slain president-elect, whose body Friday was travelling on a special train to his native state of Sonora for burial.

General Antonio Rios Zertuche, has been installed as chief of police to handle the investigation in an effort to find those "intellectually responsible."

Twenty Catholic nuns from the town of Villa Guadalupe, where the shrine of Our Lady of Guadalupe, patron saint of Mexico, is situated, were arrested and the convent was closed. Police charged that they were operating secretly in violating of the religious laws. They were held at police headquarters where the slayer, Jose de Leon Toral, is in a dungeon.

A placard bearing the words "you are avenged" was found on the tomb of the priest Miguel Pro Juarez, who was executed last November for being involved in the attempt to assassinate General Obregon with bombs. Police said a picture of the priest was found on the assassin.

The newspaper El Universal Grafico said police were investigating reports, the source of which was not revealed, that some of the former leaders of the League for the Defense of Religious Liberty were recently involved in a plot against Obregon.

CALLES UNDER GUARD

President Calles Friday was under a heavy military guard. The precautions were taken at the behest of his friends, although Calles has rejected any idea that his personal safety was in danger.

Special police guards were placed around the residences of all prominent supporters of General Obregon. The guards were stationed after a suspicious character found loitering near the home of Senator Thomas A. Robinson, Obregonista leader, had been arrested and questioned. A slip of paper found on the assassin at the time of the crime bore among other words "Robinson" and at that time it was assumed that these were the names of men singled out for death.

Indications were that supporters of Obregon would attempt to continue President Calles as the head of the state, if it could be done with any shadow of legal sanction. Their plan was said to be to propose Calles for the presidency pro tem, not as President, thus avoiding violation of the constitution.

CONVICT KILLS KEEPERS, SELF IN JAIL BREAK

Faced With Life Imprisonment Prisoner Commits Suicide After Escape Is Blocked

New York —(AP)— Faced with life imprisonment as a fourth offender under the Baumes laws, a prisoner in the Bronx jail killed two keepers in a desperate effort to escape Thursday night and then shot and killed himself.

Armed with two revolvers he had obtained in an unexplained way, he shot his way through two tiers of cells and when two shots into the lock of a steel door leading to a fire escape failed to open a way to freedom blew out his brains.

The convict was John [illegible] McCabe, 25 years old, whose police record showed back fourteen years. The two keepers he killed were Morris Broderson and Daniel Horgan, neither of whom was armed.

Broderson had just unlocked the cells on the fourth tier of the jail to give the convicts an exercise period before locking them in for the night. This was being done because of the heat.

When Broderson unlocked McCabe's cell the convict started to complain that he was not feeling well. As the guard turned to unlock the next cell door McCabe pressed a revolver against Broderson's abdomen and fired twice. The keeper grasped McCabe around the legs and was dragged to the stairway leading to the lower floor. Here his grip was broken. Unlocking the door to the fourth tier McCabe ran downstairs.

Horgan, keeper of the third tier, had heard the shots and ran for the stairs. Halfway up he met the escaping prisoner who fired twice at close range, killing almost instantly.

Stepping over the prostrate body, McCabe ran down the cell tier to a door which opens on a fire escape. He twice threw himself against the door. Failing to budge it he fired two shots into the lock. Again he hurled himself against the door and, hearing the pounding of feet up the stairs he turned his gun against himself.

Nab Forger Posing As Dry Agent

Arthur W. Jones, 704 S. Pierce-ave, Republican candidate for sheriff, Thursday started practicing for the time when he expects to hold office, and through a tip which he furnished George T. Prim, chief of police, an alleged bad check artist wanted in several Wisconsin cities and now under a pole to the state board of control for passing forged checks, was arrested here and is to be turned over to officials of the state board.

The man, giving his name as C. L. Straehe, 430 Stevens-ave, Stevens Point, posed as a prohibition officer and carried two letters purporting to be from the state prohibition office in Madison, and a deputy prohibition commissioner's badge. These articles were found in his clothing after the arrest Tuesday afternoon by Chief Prim and Officer Carl Radtke.

It was found after investigation that he cashed an alleged worthless check for $20 at the Terrace Garden Inn early this week. The check was cashed under the supposition that he was a prohibition agent, it was said.

In addition to the letters from the prohibition department, Chief Prim said he thought were fake, Straehe had six other checks on [illegible] person for amounts ranging from $12 to $20. DRY DEMOCRATS OF SOUTH START FIGHT AGAINST AL SMITH

Carry Campaign Against Party Nominee to Home States After Convention

Asheville, N. C. — (AP) — Having pledged themselves to defeat Governor Smith, delegates to the conference of dry southern Democrats separated Friday to carry their campaign against the nominee to their home states.

Before adjourning, the conference adopted a statement of its aims and principles, attacking the New York governor for waht was termed "his repudiation of the Houston platform on prohibition," his "selection of a wet Republican" as chairman of the Democratic national committee, his "wet record," and his relation to Tammany hall.

The statement declared "unswerving allegiance to the principles of true Democracy," but asserted that "we cannot support Governor Alfred E. Smith, the nominee of the Houston convention for the presidency of the United States and we hereby pledge ourselves as anti-Smith Democrats to secure his defeat."

Lengthy reference was made to the battle for a bone dry plank at the Democratic national convention and to Governor Smith's telegraph pledging enforcement of the prohibition laws but declaring for their modification. In this connection, the New York governor was accused of "bolting" the party platform and his message was termed "brazen political effrontery, planned in advance, in order to secure wet Republican votes."

A considerable part of the statement was devoted to an attack upon the appointment of John J. Raskob, as chairman of the Democratic national committee and upon Tammany hall.

The campaign against Governor Smith is to be conducted by an executive committee comprising a man and woman each from Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Kentucky, West Virginia, South Carolina and North Carolina.

It is expected that headquarters will be established at Richmond.

GIRLS END DISPUTE FOR MAN WITH FIGHT; VICTOR FACES NOOSE

High School Coed, 16, Loses in Battle Over Attention of Male

Missoula, Mont.—Because two girls, quarreling over the divided attentions of a young man, stepped out of an automobile on a lonely road to "settle it" with their fists, one of them is dead and the other is being held in jail here on a charge of first degree murder.

The prisoner is Mrs. Sylvia Thurston, 17. The dead girl is Doris Wentwroht, 16-year old high school girl.

The strange fight between them took place a few days ago after midnight on a road near Missoula. And, Missoula, case-hardened to years of brawling and shooting between miners and cattlemen is deeply stirred by this affray which involved two young girls.

Mrs Thurston, who eloped with William Thurston when she was but 15 was at her home in Milltown near here, at midnight when a party of friends stopped for her in an auto. In the car were Doris Wentworth, another girl and three boys, among them George Kolppa. 18 Doris and Sylvia are said to have been at odds for weeks over Kolppa.

After the joyride started Doris and Sylvia began bickering At length, according to comrades, they agreed to "get out and settle it." The car was stopped and the two girls went down the road together to fight it out.

As the others waited in the car they suddenly heard two revolver shots Running back, they found Doris lying on the road with two bullet wounds in her body, while Sylvia stood over her with an automatic in her hand.

Doris was taken here to a hospital where she died before dawn. Sylvia was taken to the police station.

At first she refused to discuss the shooting. Later she said she had taken the gun with her because on previous joyrides she "had trouble" and had had to walk home by herself.

Arraigned in district court for a preliminary hearing, Sylvia pleaded not guilty and was bound over for trial late in July.

She maintains, in her cell, an almost unbroken calm. Sometimes, when visited by her mother or her husband, she weeps She denies that she fought Doris over Kolppa's affections, but will not offer any other explanation.

OIL INSPECTOR HAS CLOSE CALL IN WRECK

Frank Tresten, state oil inspector, narrowly escaped injury Thursday afternoon when a car he was driving struck a car owned by August Buesing, route 2, Appleton, and went into a ditch two miles north of Mackville on Highway 47.

Both cars were going north on Highway 47 and as they approached a turn, Tresten attempted to pass the other and while passing, struck the left wheel of the Buesing car, the impact forcing Tresten into a telephone pole at the side of the road. The Tresten car was badly damaged but Buesing's car was only slightly damaged.

TWO TROUT ON ONE CAST, CAL'S MARK

President Rigs Up Line Which Gets Two on One Try Almost Daily

Superior —(AP)— President Coolidge not only is catching fish every time he goes out on the Brule but, on an average of every other day, he is performing the unusual feat of getting two trout on one cast.

He thrilled newspapermen and photographers July 4, his fifty-sixth birthday, by pulling from the river two good-sized fish on one throw of his line, but it was not known until Friday that he is repeating that stunt regularly by putting one fly on the line's dropper and the other on the end of the line.

The president made a double catch Thursday, getting a 1½ pound brook trout and a 1½ pound Lochlaven He did the same thing the previous day.

Rain or shine, Mr. Coolidge is on the river six days a week, twice each day, except when he comes to the executive offices on Tuesday and Fridays. In high white rubber boots, a dark oiled silk raincoat, and his inseparable ten-gallon hat, he was out in the steady downpour nearly all Thursday.

CLOSE STREET WHILE TRACKS ARE REPAIRED

Section crews of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad company are repairing the road crossing on N. Superior-st. Traffic was temporarily shut off Friday, and was forced to go by way of N. Appleton and N. Division-sts. It is expected the work will be completed by Friday evening.

Looks Belie Facts As Fire Boys Sit Idle At Stations

Fifteen white beds without a wrinkle—piles of white dishes in the cubboard—a barber's chair with all its accoutrements—a red mahogany high boy—and only the two shiny firemen's poles and the high boots near the beds to let you know you are in the living quarters of the Appleton fire force. The feminine tidiness of the upstairs is strangely out of harmony with the huge fire-red, ominous-looking fire engines downstairs, with their highly polished metal gongs all ready to clang, their rolls and rolls of hose ready to spout streams of water at flashing flames, and their glaring headlights second only in brightness to the search light of a locomotive.

The firemen, beautifully serene in this atmosphere of ever-impending danger, are proud to show off their neatly kept apartments, and their ability to "shift for themselves," even to doing their own barbering, which they did until the Barber's union made them store away their barber's chair. And yet they admit that its a supreme pleasure on their off week to be able to eat home-cooked meals and sleep in their own beds. Do they tire of nothing to do but waiting? The question brought a storm from the assembled firemen—nothing to do! And then they explained how life was one grand round of polishing and housekeeping—the housewife with her seven room apartment has nothing on them. There are the firemen's poles which must be polished daily, so when the alarm sounds the fifteen night men can slip down at break-neck speed; there are the beds to make, the floors to sweep, the meals to cook, the dishes to wash, and the big engines to polish and keep in perfect mechanical order. And when you see their quarters with everything immaculately clean, and everything in its place, you realize that these men do not start gozing over the back fence until the housework is done.

The kitchen, however, smacks more of the masculine than does the dormitory. The dishes are heavy, cracked, and nicked in true man fashion, and there is a very apparent absence of the odd pieces of chinaware dear to the heart of every housewife. The staple groceries on the shelves are the best evidence that men are doing the cooking—no vanilla, cloves, nutmeg or cinnamon, just the sturdy things absolutely necessary to cooking such as coffee, salt, pepper, and sugar. The bill-of-fare on this particular evening consisted of turtle soup cooked in a huge kettle on an electric stove as highly polished as the engines downstairs. The turtles had been caught that day by some of the night force.

The trappings of the big fire engines are the most fascinating parts of the whole system, outside of the firemen themselves and said will be the day when modern invention replaces these romantic looking mechanisms with other fire-fighting equipment. Viewed carefully, however, the intricate interweaving of wood, metal and rubber comes into relief as ladders, hoses, canvas nets, water pumps siren whistles, headlights, lanterns and chemical tanks.

Yes to the outside casual observer, the life of Chief McGillan's men looks like an easy one, perhaps even a dull one, but it has its daily routine and its hours and hours of danger and hard fire-fighting besides, and it has its romance; though the firemen sit idly in front of the engine house or play cribbage, they never know when one of the 250 or 300 calls a year will come clanging through and spoil their game.

SIMPLE BIBLE STORIES ARE ADDED TO LIBRARY

Three new volumes of Bible stories have been added to the children's department of the Appleton Free Public library, according to the librarian. The new books are The Bible in Graded Story in three volumes, by Edna and Clara Becker. These stories are written in the simplest form and can be easily understood.

The authors have studied children and what they like to read, and in their books they bring out characteristics that children like. There are many more simple books about the Bible at the library.

PROUD MOTHER SHOWS 100-POUND BABY TO WORLD—IT'S A HIPPO

Menominee, Mich.—(AP)—Alice is mother of a baby boy and the lusty youth weighs 100 pounds.

Incidentally, Alice weighs 12,000 pounds herself, so the baby is not so large.

It came about when Alice, who is a hippopotamus with the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, presented the world the only hippo baby born with a circus. Barney, her husband, is mighty proud and immediately ordered a crib, which was built by the boiler works here and is eight feet by four feet, four feet high.

The glorious event occurred on the Northwestern road at Francis Creek, Wis., and delayed the circus train coming from Racine to this city. There was no afternoon performance as a result.

Circus men said Thursday that the only other hippo born in this country was in the Memphis (Tenn.) zoo several years ago.

STATE REFUSES O. K. TO HIGHWAY MARKING PLAN

A suggestion by Appleton Lions club that white crosses be set up along highways to mark places where fatal accidents occurred failed to receive the indorsement of the Wisconsin Highway commission at its meeting on Tuesday. The suggestion was made to the commission by Frank B Younger, then president of the club, that crosses be set up along highways in Outagamie co and later, if the state approved the plan, along highways all over Wisconsin.

The commission, however, decided that inasmuch as it has been the policy to keep the roads free from signs it could not indorse the plan.

The club here considered the matter at a meeting several weeks ago and referred it to its directors. It is said the plan of erecting crosses to mark places where fatal accidents occured is used in Ohio.

ORDER SEWER AND WATER FOR EVERY RESIDENCE

Every building in Appleton used for human habitation and near sewer and water pipes will be connected to both services, if the ruling of the state board of health, now being considered by the Appleton water commission, is adopted. The fact the ruling is a state regulation almost insures its adoption for the city.

The only exception to the ruling

Two Boys Keep Secret Of Close Call To Drowning

Menasha—Richard, 7, and Freddie, 6, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Landskron, 312 Water-st, who fell into the government canal and narrowly escaped drowning Wednesday evening, not only made no outcry while in the water, but, according to their mother, it was with the greatest difficulty that she learned what happened to them when they returned home with their clothing drenched after being rescued. A neighbor's boy, Junior Steinyak, was with them at the time but escaped getting into the water. Instead of spreading an alarm when the boys were in difficulty, he made tracks for home. He, too, has evaded giving out information.

Contrary to first reports of one brother trying to rescue the other, both were teetering on a plank which broke and dropped them into the water. A stranger crossing Tayco-st bridged with a baby carriage noticed them struggling in the canal, jumped in and rescued them. Richard had gone down for the last time and was very weak when he reached home, which was close to the scene of the accident. While there is a year's difference in their ages, the boys are about the same size and resemble each other so closely that they are easily mistaken for twins.

After rescuing them, the stranger went his way without revealing his identity.

Siren Girl Quits Auction Block As Parents Quarrel

Milwaukee—(AP)—Her parents estranged, perhaps permanently, through her efforts to provide for them in comfort the rest of their lives, Beatrice Albert has decided to dismount from the "auction block."

"I have definitely decided to withdraw my offer to marry anyone who would give my parents $6,000 for their maintenance the rest of their lives," she said Friday, "because as a result of my first bargain my father and mother are separated, perhaps forever."

Miss Albert, the 19-year-old Siren, Wis., girl who created a sensation six months ago by offering herself as the wife of the highest bidder, said last week that she would go to Comstock, Wis., a tiny hamlet in northern Wisconsin and there meet three aspirants to her hand.

Friday morning, however, back in Milwaukee where she has lived with her family for two months at the expense of W. W. Goynes, postmaster of Soldiers' home, she said she had changed her mind.

"My parents' happiness," she said sorrowfully, "can not be obtained with money alone. Back in their two-room frame farm house in Siren they were happier than they are now in comparative luxury."

Her father, feeling that Miss Albert should marry Mr. Goynes, with whom the family has lived for three months, refused to leave Milwaukee and Mr. Goynes' house when his daughter went to Comstock to seek a husband. The two men, on the best of terms, are planning a long fishing trip together. Mr. Albert is adamant and declares he will have nothing to do with his daughter unless she "does the honorable thing" and marries Mr. Goynes.

Her mother, on the other hand, just as set against Mr. Goynes as her father is for him, refuses to allow her to reconsider the offer of the elderly postmaster.

"And what shall I do?" she demanded Friday. "How can I undo the trouble I have caused?

"I know now that happiness is not found through money, and even if I should be able to shower my parents with luxuries, I could never make them as happy as they were back in their little farm home.

"My father tells me the only honorable thing for me to do is to marry Mr Goynes. My mother says if I marry him she shall go away.

"So I have decided that love and love only shall be the consideration if ever I marry."

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service — by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED

VIRGINIA BREWSTER, upon the sudden death of her father, goes to live with a friend, CLARISSA DEAN and her father. Her fiance, NATHANIEL DANN, objects to this for he mistrusts DEAN'S motives. Upon phoning NIEL'S studio late one night, VIRGINIA is surprised when his model, CHIRI, answers. This causes a quarrel which is later mended.

Hoping to get NIEL away, DEAN arranges to have him offered a position in San Francisco. NIEL begs VIRGINIA to marry him and go west, but she refuses to let him sacrifice his art.

CLARISSA becomes jealous of VIRGINIA and the latter resolves to leave but DEAN opposes her departure and asks her to marry him. When she refuses, he theratens to reveal the fact that her father cheated him out of $100,000. Recklessly, VIRGINIA pledges to marry him if she fails to earn the money to repay him in one year's time. She then leaves and seeks a quiet, respectable hotel in which to live, after learning that her bank balance is overdrawn and pawning one of her rings. She goes to NIEL'S studio for tea and to tell him of her departure from the DEANS'. Part of her happiness at seeing him is spoiled by the presence of his model, CHIRI, who shows no haste in departing.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX

Nathaniel's ardent pleading came to a whispered end. Virginia remained quiet, his cheek touching hers, his heart filled with victory.

Exquisite release from pain, from doubt and haunting fear. She was tired and his embrace was a restful haven, soothing her with a sense of peace and security. They did not count the moments as they passed, the moments of bliss, but one came at last that broke the spell for Virginia. It brought the reckoning of this sweet surrender crashing through the forgetfulness Nathaniel had lulled into her mind.

She was out of his arms in one lightning-quick movement. "Oh Niel," she cried frantically; "you're making me forget."

Nathaniel gasped. "Virginia . . ."

"Don't touch me, please," she begged tearfully. "You don't understand."

Nathaniel stood back from her, worried and not a little frightened. Had her troubles affected her mind? "Sit down please," he said with gentle command. "I promise not to touch you. Shall I get you a glass of water?"

The commonplace question seemed to restore Virginia to a degree of calmness that permitted her to appreciate the strangeness of her outburst.

"Oh, Niel!" she sobbed, sinking suddenly into her chair. "I love you with all my heart but you mustn't talk to me about marriage."

He knelt beside her in stricken silence. He was afraid to speak to her lest he arouse her to further irresponsible deciarations.

Presently she lifted her head from her arms and put a hand on his. "Your hand's like ice," she exclaimed in surprise.

"Will you talk to me," he said, ignoring the condition of his hands.

"If you will promise not to make love to me as you did."

"My God, Virginia! I'm on fire for you. I want to take care of you. What kind of man would I be to let you live alone now, when you need someone to comfort you more than you ever will again?"

"You've no idea how much the thought of your love comforts me, Niel, darling. But I've made up my mind not to lose myself in happiness until . . . until it's so soon since father's death, you know," she ended haltingly.

"I don't want to throw you into hysterics again," Nathaniel told her "but it seems to me you aren't giving much consideration to my feelings. Aside from that I know your father would not want you to live alone. He'd be the first to advise you to listen to me."

"You must let me be the judge of that, Niel. In spite of the liberty he allowed me, father was a most conventional person. He often said our modern speed was in very bad taste. And to marry in haste . . ."

"But Virginia, I just want you to name a day. It needn't be for a few weeks if you insist, but you owe me something. If you loved me as much as I do you, I wouldn't have to urge our wedding so strongly."

"You have no right to say that, Niel. No one can understand just how another person feels about things. If you knew . . . if you were in my place . . ."

"I wouldn't know so much about love, I'm afraid," Nathaniel put in passionately.

Virginia shrank back from him as if he had struck her.

"If you feel like that . . ." she cried and leaped to her feet. Nathaniel caught her. "Virginia," he said with instant contrition; "we're seriously near our first quarrel. I'd apologize a thousand times before I'd have that happen. Please, dear, let's kiss and make up."

Virginia could not resist him, but even as their lips met, her mind registered a conviction that this was not to be the end of their hot words. Nathaniel's doubt of her love would grow stronger as time went on and she continued to turn a deaf ear to his pleas. Doubting her, he would lose faith and if at last he really believed that she did not love him would he not turn away from her? Virginia clung to him fiercely as this thought went through her mind and for that moment at least Nathaniel did not question the depth of her love. He was a little surprised by the force of her passion but not at all loath to accept it.

"Don't ever say such things again," she entreated him. "Promise you won't doubt me, no matter what I do. Promise, Niel! Promise you'll believe in me until I tell you I don't love you any more!"

Nathaniel laughed happily. He had not Virginia's reasons for knowing the test his faith would be put to and her insistence seemed a trifle dramatic, but he liked to have her this way, palpitating and flushed with emotion, with love for him.

"You darling!" he cried. "I'll promise anything you like if you'll promise to give me a fair break."

Virginia hesitated. "I'll be fair," she said at last, but there was a change from her fervor of a moment before. She knew that promises made on ignorance were not binding, and Nathaniel must remain in ignorance, until their fate was settled. Nathaniel noticed the change but he was intelligent enough to know that the rapture of a moment gone cannot be captured at will. But there would be other moments! The dearness of Virginia, her sweet, fine mind and loveliness assured him of that.

"And now we will have dinner together," he remarked joyously. "Gosh, Virginia I'm so glad to have you to myself. I'd never have seen much of you if you'd remained with the Deans. A couple of highbrow bums, those two. There isn't enough soul between them for a worm. Where'll we eat?"

"Let's stay down here in the Village."

"All right. I'll get this paint off my hands and then we'll scout around. Just a moment."

While he was gone Virginia carried the tea tray to the kitchenette and washed the cups and saucers. She had to be moving, doing something. To sit in idleness was tormenting. Already she had formulated a vague plan for the beginning of her struggle with Fortune, but she could do nothing about it until she had some money, even a little money. She did not want to think any more until she heard from Mr. Gardiner.

Nathaniel hurried and rejoined her soon. He looked tremendously handsome in his slouchy gray tweeds, but Virginia laughed at the way he had brushed his hair. Just like a small boy who thought he'd be late for the circus.

"I'm afraid you will be cold," he said, noticing that Virginia had no wrap. "Shall we taxi up to your hotel and get a coat?"

"You have a Spanish shawl; can't I take that?"

Nathaniel rummaged in the Italian chest under the window and brought up a beautiful black silk shawl embroidered with white roses.

"Have to hide it from Chiri," he remarked casually. "A friend sent it from Spain, so I shouldn't like to part with it. Chiri is crazy about it."

Virginia let him wrap it around her shoulders and drape it artistically.

"See what a handy man around the house I'll be," he boasted.

"I'm not so useless myself," Virginia retorted and gave his hair a few deft touches.

"It's rooted in my stubborn streak," Nathaniel apologized, grinning at the face she made over his unruly locks.

"Well, then, rumple it good and really look like an artist," she suggested, and further disarranged the sorrel mop. "Now you look like Will Rogers would look if he had your face," she teased.

She felt as one feels who has reached terra firma after skating on thin ice. If she could keep Nathaniel in a light mood, keep him entertained, make him forget serious matters, it might be possible to lead him gradually into not accepting her changed status without thinking he must do something about it. When he saw that she was no so helpless as people thought her—that she could do what other girls were doing and—though he did not know this—much, much more, he would grow to respect her independence, to admire her for refusing to come to him as one who is too weak to weather a storm seeks shelter. "He will see that I think he is something more than a refuge," she encouraged her new hope. "And he will be proud of me if I can make him think I want to do this for my self-respect," she told herself as they went, laughing, down the stairs to the street.

"Any place in particular?" Nathaniel asked.

"Let's prowl. I love these streets. My shawl won't be conspicuous, will it?"

"In the Village! I've seen such things as a girl with stockingless legs on a night in January, hula-walking, on Seventh Avenue. She wasn't in costume, either."

"Well, her legs are her own affair, aren't they?" Virginia remarked with hidden guile.

Virginia smiled. "That is one of the things I like in you Niel. You believe, really believe, in freedom. Most people who say they do just flatter themselves."

"You mean they theorize. I don't suppose anyone won't deny he believed in the individual's right to do as he pleases within the laws, written and unwritten, but the application of a theory often puts it in a different light."

"But if you have the real spirit of liberty, you'll always put it first in importance, above your own personal wishes in the matter, wouldn't you?"

"I'd want to, dear."

Virginia smiled and laid the statement away in her memory for future use.

A little later when they walked to an orange juice stand she was doubly glad that she had trusted Nathaniel implicitly.

COUNTY TRUNK Z PAVING

Taxpayers of Outagamie county interested in the reason for the high cost of county government could hardly expect to find a more glaring example of the almost total disregard for principles of business and economy than the recent bond issue to pave County Trunk Z from Appleton to Kaukauna with amiesite, a patented pavement, and the subsequent award of the contract for this work.

Not only is the whole proceeding lacking in business principle but it has the aspect of deliberate and careful calculation to submerge the best interests of the county and taxpayers for the benefit of individuals.

The responsibility of courses rests upon the county board which, at its last session authorized a bond issue of $175,000 for road improvement purposes and permitted the bond resolution to specify that $80,000 was to be used for paving County Trunk Z with amiesite, thereby preventing consideration of other types of pavement for that highway. The highway commission, pursuant to this resolution, this week awarded the contract for paving this highway with amiesite for approximately $81,000, or $1,000 more than the amount specified in the bond issue.

Just why the county board in its resolution should have gone to the trouble of specifying a certain type of patented pavement for this highway when it authorized the bond issue is not quite clear. State law prohibits a municipality from specifying an particular type of pavement even in the advertisement for bids but the county board goes so far as to specify by name the particular brand of pavement that must be laid on a highway, thereby effectively shutting out all competition and leaving the taxpayers to the tender mercy of the contractors.

There is nothing to indicate that the type of pavement specified for this highway is so much better than other types available to the county to make its selection a wise business move. So far as the records go this patented road covering cannot be considered a permanent pavement when it is placed on a macadam or crushed rock base as will be done on County Z. Investigation would have shown the county board a number of instances where this pavement laid under similar circumstances have not been entirely satisfactory. So far as we have been unable to determine there is no good business reason to justify the county board's action in completely shutting out competition on this project.

Nor can we see where the board showed foresight and judgment in raising money by bond issue for graveling highways. Inasmuch as bonds are tantamount to a mortgage on the county's future revenues it appears to us that money raised in this manner should be expended only for a permanent pavement and not for temporary surfacing such as graveling. It is probable that long before the principal on this bond issue is retired it will be necessary again to resurface the roads on which this money was spent. It would be far wiser to pay for graveling out of current tax levies and leave the revenue from bond issues for permanent improvements.

We realize that it probably is too late now to remedy the miscarriages of county business, but it is not too late to point out to the taxpayers how their representatives on the county board spend their money. When men permit themselves to be elected on the board of supervisors they agree to conduct the affairs of the county with the same care and integrity with which they would operate their own affairs, but the provisions of this bond resolution do not indicate the careful consideration of the county's best interests which taxpayers have a right to expect of their representatives.

SAFETY CAMPAIGN EFFECTIVE

The American Railway association recently made an announcement which indicates that the public is heeding the "Stop, Look, Listen" signs. The number of persons killed in grade crossing accidents in 1927, as compared with 1926, declined 4 per cent, despite an increase of 5 per cent in the number of automobiles in use, and an increase of 10 per cent in the number of fatalities in accidents on highways. The installation of many types of warning signals such as flashing lights and ringing bells, as well as the additional use of gates and crossing watchmen, have contributed to this gain in safety. This is a splendid record and one that inspires further efforts of watchfulness and precaution on the part of both railroads and motorists. It should also help to promote the gradual elimination of the more dangerous grade crossings.

NO REVOLT IN IOWA

Five weeks following the Kansas City convention, Iowan Republicans, in the heart of the corn belt revolt area, met in state convention and unanimously indorsed Hoover and Curtis. It is almost unbelievable, but the convention was marked by harmony such as Iowa has not known in years. Conservatives and radicals, standpatters and insurgents, LaFollette men, McNary-Haugenites, got together and with enthusiasm approved the Republican ticket and platform. Governor Smith was condemned for his "attitude on nullification" and Tammany for "its effort to fasten itself upon the nation." Another pertinent declaration was this: "To look for farm relief from the Tammany ticket is like putting the cat to guarding the cream. The only corn Tammany knows is the liquid kind—they think it grows in bottles." The platform advocates an "equalization fee or some other method equally effective." This seems to be regarded in that region as a dignified abandonment of the fee idea. And all from a state that was going to bolt the Republican ticket and support Smith!

The most significant statement in the platform was the following: "We have supreme confidence in the word, integrity and ability of Herbert Hoover in solving this great (the farm) problem. Herbert Hoover has solved every serious problem that he has been asked to solve, and we have supreme faith in his word given to the Kansas City convention that the problem will and must be solved." In this vote of personal confidence rests the whole prospect of Hoover's success in November. That it is very real and very extensive, not only in the corn belt, but throughout the nation, is apparent. It expresses a wide-spread conviction.

The feeling that Hoover has demonstrated his presidential stature by large experiences and achievements is responsible for the rapid dissolution of the farm revolt in the middle West and its almost complete disappearance in Iowa. The governor of that state after a lengthy interview with Mr. Hoover declares his faith in the Republican nominee's capacity to solve the farm problem and his approval of the broad plan Mr. Hoover has in mind. As an augury of future events and tendencies in the campaign the Iowa convention is perhaps illuminating. The fact is there is no more probability of an agrarian revolt against Hoover that there is of a prohibition revolt in the South against Smith.

CONTROLLING RADIO

There are 55 broadcasting stations that will certainly quit the air on Aug. 1. These are stations that have defaulted their broadcasting rights by failing to appear before the Federal Radio commission and show cause why they should not be discontinued. This is so much to the good. The air clears a little.

There are 109 other stations in the list the commission is seeking to kill off, which have been in Washington lately fighting for their lives. They all have the indorsement of influential bodies; they all plead their own merits. The commission will probably deny the pleas of at least half of these before the fatal date, and take the rest under advisement.

Some of the stations ordered to quit will then carry their cause to the federal courts, and there will be litigation. The air channels, however, must be cleared if radio is to serve its purpose. Where stations are not eliminated directly by disapproval of the commission with court sanction, the same purpose may be served by voluntary mergers.

A year of uncontrolled radio, caused by lack of legislation, enabled large number of stations to come into existence unnecessarily, crowding the available wavebands. Now a harassed commission with one hand tied must do the best it can and earn the ill-will of scores of stations and communities. It should have public support rather than ill-will.

WHEN GRANDMA DOES THE SHIMMY

A disease—no, it isn't really a disease at all, just a variation from the regular or ordinary—somehow acquired a frightful name though I can't imagine why—shaking palsy. This is the popular name, and being too easy for the mere layman, the name is rejected by the doctor in favor of paralysis agitans—which sounds even more ominous, I should say. Some of us doctors are really kind and gentle, and we get around these dreadful names by referring to the condition as Parkinson's affection.

Long before the shimmy arrived, I remember, grandma used to do it constantly, and for all her "palsy" a feller had to go some to beat her to the cookie crock and away again. If grandma's case was a fair example of paralysis agitans, and I know now that it was, then all I have to say is that it was darn lucky for us boys she didn't have a stroke, for in that case the cookies would have mouldered away in the crock, as did Mrs. Darcy's. Mrs. Darcy was a pioneer in conservation; she saved her cookies by putting caraway seeds in them. There are two types of malevolence I have never been able to understand; (1) the kind of lady who offers a kid a cookie with caraway seeds concealed in it, and (2) the old fogy doctor who tells the amateur mother sugar and candy are bad for young children.

This Parkinson's affection is by no means confined to elderly subjects. Every little while it occurs in a young person. It makes a typical picture, when the subject has it all over and not just in limited segments. The picture is one that is often simulated on the stage and screen, though rarely faithfully, but rather with those funny modifications that dramatists demand. Have you ever noticed the striking difference between a bandaged hero on the stage and one in the hospital? He isn't comical in the hospital.

Parkinson's affection presents a peculiar fine pill-rolling tremor of the hands, a sad immobile countenance perhaps startingly set off with bright snapping eyes, and a characteristic gait with steps growing shorter and faster till the subject seems to fall—but seldom does fall—and probably some limitation of the use of the hands and arms as in combing hair or washing the face. Along with this goes a superficial emotional susceptibility—though this, I suspect, depends more upon the amount of sympathy the subject receives from friends or the pity he feels for himself. Viewed as a mere affection, and that is all it is, paralysis agitans is a very mild affliction indeed.

Look here:

"Dear Dr. Brady: Three years ago I wrote you about the unsteadiness of my hands, which shook so I found it impossible sometimes to write a word. Through my son, Dr. T. H. M., you suggested—(never mind that part—I am willing to give the same suggestion to any reader's physician)—which I took for several months. My hands ceased to trouble me. My body seemed renewed in strength. I felt very well, almost young again. (Mrs. M. was 80 years of age at the time.) A year and a half ago I resumed the treatment, with the same satisfactory results. Last spring I stopped off at Helena, Mont., and the altitude affected me so much that I was ill for several weeks and lost considerable strength and my trembling returned. So I began taking the same medicines again for two months, and once more I feel quite well, take care of my home, and go to whatever is going on. My friends say I am a miracle. It is the treatment, I am sure, and I am all right except for some trembling. My son is in Honolulu now. I am past 83 years. Yours very thankfully (Mrs. M. B. M.)"

Once more, I will give no details whatever to the reader but only to the attending physician if he cares to know what Mrs. M.'s son prescribed for her.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Shocking

Young lady has fur trimmed coat and silk dress. Every time she wears these she gets sparks of electricity and distinct shocks from them. She is getting nervous about it. At first I thought is was imagination until I saw the sparks and heard the crackles. (G. B.)

Answer—Perhaps her skin is dry. It is insignificant. Friction generates the static. When the air is clear and dry some persons can scrape their feet over the carpet or rug and get a spark from any surface they approach with the finger.

Chalk It Down

I am 16 years of age and am having stomach trouble. To ease heartburn I take a teaspoon of soda daily. Is this injurious? Doctor says there are signs of ulcer only I am far too young for that. (W. E. A.)

Answer—I would suggest that you use calcium carbonate instead of sodium bicarbonate. The common name for this is prepared chalk. A moderate dose is ten grains, and this is usually sufficient to neutralize excessive acidity for several hours.

Bookworms

Opening a case of old books I encountered several bugs resembling water bugs. Can these be "book worms"? They are old school books. (R. R. M.)

Answer—I have never envisaged a book worm, but I supposed they were tiny things scarcely visible to the near-sighted book lover.

THE DOUBLE RAINBOW

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

"THE VIRGINIANS"

In an arresting poem in a current issue of a magazine Vachel Lindsay asserts over and over "The Virginians are coming again." The poem is addressed directly to the Babbitts of this nation. Lindsay taunts them with their lack of vision. They are so narrow and soul-straved and spiritually restricted that they do not see that "the Virginians are coming again." Those "Virginians" are coming forth out of the loins of the Babbitts themselves and the Babbitts don't know it. They think the kind of world they have built, with their neat systems of finance, their passion for safety, their fear of physical or mental adventure, is going to persist and that the coming generation will not only maintain it but advance it. But, says Lindway, the Virginians are at the door; they are coming again to change this world.

With the "Virginians" he means of course the cavalier spirit —the opposite of the commercial spirit: the spiritual adventurer instead of the financially safe and sane; the man who sets more store by an idea than by a bank account; the kind of person who, like the cavaliers of Washington's day, lived by rules of honor and who would rather lose their lives than have the slightest smirch against them: knights, not traders.

Such a race of people is going to occupy the American continent in the generations that are coming. Lindsay asserts in his poem. The Babbitts think their position is impregnable but their very sons and daughters are going to turn traitor to the Babbitt ideal and are going to repudiate it. America is going to be conquered by the Virginians and they are going to restore this land to its one-time glory.

Thus Vachel Lindway the poet and prophet. In trying to determine how seriously to take the prophecy it is necessary to recall who Vachel Lindway is. He a born vagabond and a born hater of the Babbitt spirit. He can see little sense in the elaborate system of finance and business that has been developed. He values freedom above a full stomach or a good suit of clothes.

For many years he even sidestepped marriage because it was necessary for him to be free and footloose. But a year or two ago he married and I suspect that step is not unconnected with this poem. He has probably discovered that the Babbitt methods are inseparable from the orderly living of the average family and he probably feels himself in the grip of a system that galls him.

The idealist in him says that life ought not to be like that and he harks back to a supposedly happier and more expansive age when the cavalier was in the saddle and the Babbitt class had not yet attained to power. That golden age must come back, he thinks, because he so passionately desires it. So he sings "The Virginians are coming again."

But are they? With true poetic freedom he merely makes the assertion without offering the proof. It is perhaps too much to look for proof from a poet. But putting aside the vision for a moment, I see no evidence of the near approach of the "Virginians." True, the Babbitts have been challenged for the first time in our generation but there is no reason to suppose that they have been even checked in their career.

That moreover the "Virginians" are coming forth from the loins of the Babbits themselves seems biologically unsound to me. The Babbittt spirit is not something superimposed, it is in the blood and marrow. If this generation has it, the next will have it and a poet can't stop it.

Moreover, it is a big question whether the return of the "Virginians" under modern conditions would be as desirable as Lindway thinks it will be.

A DOUBLE STRATEGY

Woodbury, N. J.—A double play on strategy was accomplished here when Mrs. Mary Batten, 50, objected to having an electric light pole erected near her home. To prevent workers from setting the pole she pumped into the five-foot excavation and sat down. But the light company foreman won the argument by having his men set the pole ten feet away, leaving Mrs. Batten to hold the empty hole.

The Question Box

Information on almost any subject can be secured by sending questions to the Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director Washington D. C. The bureau does not answer questions pertaining to medicine nor does it express opinions on the merits of stocks and bonds. Send a 2-cent stamp or a stamped and self-addressed envelope with your question.

Q. How long ago did jockeys begin to ride in running races with their saddles across the horses' withers? D. T.

A. The method of saddling was inaugurated about the beginning of this century. American jockeys were responsible for it. It was some time before English turfmen became reconciled to it, but it was demonstrated that riding forward did give the horse thus ridden a slight advantage, and such saddling is now the general practise.

Q. Are there any private holdings in Yellowstone National Park? E. P.

A. Yellowstone and Hot Springs were set aside as government reservations before any private claims were made on the land. Practically all other national parks contain some private land. This land is being acquired by the Government when satisfactory arrangements can be made. Congress has provided $100,000 within the past two years for such purchases, all sums having to be equalled by outside contributions.

Q. What is the percentage of starch in white bread and in whole wheat bread? H. M. C.

A. There is from 50 to 55 per cent starch in white bread, and from 40 to 45 per cent of starch in whole-wheat bread. The actual amount will depend on the kind of flour used and the formula.

Q. What women are entitled to be called Gold Star Mothers? G. F.

A. There seems to be no official interpretation of the term "Gold Star Mother." The Gold Star Mother's Association defines such a mother as one whose son was killed overseas during the World War or who was killed on the sea while serving in the War. The American War Mother's Association defines a Gold Star Mother as one whose son has died, between the dates of April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1920, from wounds or disability incurred in service during the War.

Q. Is there such a thing as a wind driven clock? N. A. L.

A. Mr. Frank Padratti, of San Francisco, has invented a wind-driven clock, which he claims to be the nearest approach to a perpetual motion clock in the world. It is driven by metal balls dropping into a cup on the drive shaft of the clock. The weight of the ball forces the drive shaft down with it, thus operating the clock. At each quarter of an hour revolution the ball is dropped from the cup and replaced by another ball from the track above. The dropping ball runs down a circular runway until it enters an elevator operated by the wind. The ball is then raised to the upper track and is ready to take its place on the drive shaft. There are 250 of these balls on Padratti's clock, thus providing for days' running without additional wind power.

DAILY HINTS FOR HEALTH

INFANTILE PARALYSIS IS HORROR TO MOTHERS

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, The Health Magazine

Of the three great epidemic diseases that attack the central nervous system, infantile paralysis is perhaps most dreaded by the mothers of growing children.

One of the first pandemics of this disease that swept the world was that which appeared in Norway and Sweden about 1905, spread over the nations of the world rapidly, and then appeared in epidemic form in the United States.

It attacked first on the eastern coast of this country and then in Minnesota and in adjoining states which are the western homeland of the Scandinavian immigrants.

RECENT OUTBREAK

In his Kober lecture, Dr. Simon Flexner points out that this epidemic has not yet run its course, and considerable outbreaks of infantile paralysis have occurred in 1927 in California, Massachusetts and New York State, in Germany and Rumania.

In the epidemic that swept New York in 1916, 20,000 cases were reported and many more may have occurred. Thus the pandemic has lasted 20 years, and it is not possible to predict when it will wear itself out. By "wearing itself out" one means that the disease will have attacked those it can reach and who have no resistance against it.

It is known today that there are some cases of infantile paralysis which pass through phases of fever and the other symptoms, but with out paralysis, so that it is not possible to say definitely exactly how many cases really occur and are diagnosed and just how much the disease spreads.

CAUSE UNDETERMINED

The cause of this disease has not been determined. Many investigations have been made which indicate that there is an infection substance, either a germ or a virus, the latter being infectious material so small that it cannot be seen even with the most high powered microscope.

It has been proved definitely that it is possible to pass the disease to monkeys by transmitting the infectious material. Mr. Flexner is convinced that the disease is passed from one person to another by the way of secretions of the nose and throat from the nose, it is carried to the spine, and there it affects the anterior side of the spine so that another name for the disease is "acute anterior poliomyelitis," an inflammation of the material in the front of the spine. From the front of the spine pass the nerves that control motion.

Therefore severe inflammation and crippling of these nerves, result in the condition of paralysis, that is the chief mark of the disease.

THE FIGHT WITHIN

It has been found that persons who are recovering from the disease develop in their blood material which fights the disease.

Hence it is becoming customary to treat the condition by obtaining the blood of persons who have recently recovered and injecting this into persons who are suffering with infantile paralysis.

The suggestion is also made that such blood may have the power of preventing the disease, and in the presence of an epidemic, attempts are already being made to control the disease by injecting the blood serum that has been mentioned.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—An indefinite number of New Yorkers stay awake through the daylight hours trying to figure out new means of nocturnal entertainment that will keep them from going to bed.

To stay out all night in Manhattan is a very simple matter. In spite of a 3 o'clock in the morning curfew law, which governs a certain number of night clubs, it's quite easy to amuse one's self until the last stenographer starts for work.

Anyone who cares to engage in the all-night marathons has merely to leave his apartment, hotel room or house, go to dinner, arrive a bit late at the theatre and then take himself to any of the various dancing establishments, whether this be a night club or a "nickelodeon." Or, if he prefers, there's always the midnight sailing of a boat, the speakeasies or any one of the midnight performances—of which, at present, the most popular happens to be "Diamond Lil." The midnight auditions, which in grandpa's day we called "try-outs" and even "amateur nights," gets a big hand at the Earl Carroll Opry House. For the "hot spots," the leader is "Blackbirds of 1928," another midnight affair.

Any of these will take you out into the chill morning air about 2:30, or thereabouts, ready to go.

This is the hour when Harlem just begins to come to life. Also it's the hour when Texas Guinan has perched herself solidly upon the backs of two chairs and is tossing certain noise-making devices at the sleepy "spouse" in the corner while crying to the mob that the "little girl deserves a hand."

What with such entertainment it is not hard, taking time out for black coffee and spirits of ammonia, to come snapping home about 9 or 10 o'clock in the morning.

* * *

Perhaps it's because there has been little or no summer to date. At any rate, this is the first season in many a year wherein, charting Broadway from end to end, it's possible to find but one typical "summer girl show." One, I am told, is now in process of being slapped together in Atlantic City, Philadelphia and way stops. Of the 29 attractions still alive upon the big street, some half of them are musical shows. But they do not come under the heading of what they term typically summer shows.

* * *

At four o'clock in the afternoon if one lingers along Park Avenue in the vicinity of the Eighties, it is possible to see a venerable-looking phaeton sweep by, with all the artistocratic dignity of a by-gone day. Leaning back, unconscious of the craning necks in the passing taxis and autos, you would catch a glimpse at a white-haired woman, whose head turns neither to the right or to the left, and whose eyes seem to be fastened upon the trim hat of the driver. There are few of these left—even in Manhattan. Horse-drawn vehicles are for tourists and for Manhattanites seeking novelty.

* * *

Stopping at the Broadway slang mints, I am told that the latest additions to the language include the following:

o "melt" is to "duck out" on a boy friend who "isn't so good." One says, for instance, "Let's melt." A discarded sweetie is now a "knight before last." A summer romance is a "Coney Island," or, if not a New Yorker a "sun spot." If, as a good husband, you take your wife to Atlantic City, for instance, you're "excess baggage," or your wife is.

And the gags they're pulling on the Hoover cabinet, we leave to your various imaginations.

SCIENTISTS FIND WAYS TO IMPROVE RADIO RECEPTION

Claim Static Cannot Be Eliminated but That Noises Can Be Reduced

Washington— To label Dr J. H. Dellinger, chief of the radio laboratory of the U. S Bureau of Standards, and Dr. L. W. Austin, head of the laboratory for special radio transmission research, as pessimists would be scientific heresy. They are, in fact, in the vanguard of radio progress, constantly devising new instruments and means for surmounting obstacles in accomplishing perfect radio reception.

Yet when they declare that static cannot be eliminated there is a note of pessimism that puts a damper on the hopes of many inventors More than 100 so-called static eliminators have been devised But the best advice for their inventors and hopeful radio fans is to accept the fatalistic doctrine that what is to be must be, and not pin their faith on these devices to obtain clear radio reception.

Dellinger and Austin offer no panacea for the elimination of static. Dr. Austin, who for 20 years has trailed atmosphere disturbances, from Goat Island, California, to Bar Harbor, Maine predicts that static will never be eliminated.

He does however, suggest a means for minimizing its effects It is use of a loop antenna Static has directional characteristics and by using a loop antenna signals may be picked up from some directions even in the summer, almost free of atmospheric disturbances.

HOW TO REDUCE NOISE

Dr. Dellinger suggests six practical methods for reducing static to a minimum. They are:

"1—Use of a small receiving antenna. This may be a relatively low and short outdoor wire or an indoor antenna. Such an antenna receives less powerful signals but this may be compensated by using a more sensitive receiving set.

"2—Use of a very selective receiving set.

"3—Use of a 'wave antenna,' which is a very low a one wave length or more long.

"4—Use a of a combination of several antennas in such a way as to partly balance out the atmospherics.

"5—Use of a long antenna buried a short distance underground This type of antenna, however, reduces both the signal strength and the strength of atmospherics.

"6—Use of the limiting action of an electron tube in conjunction with tuned audio-frequency amplification This method is based on the theory that an electron tube when worked at a certain point on its characteristic curve restricts the strength of the signal heard to a definite maximum

"Thus atmospherics although stronger than the signal being received, are equal in intensity to it, as heard in the telephone receivers. This equality in signal strength having been obtained, the advantage of audio frequency tuning may be utilized the result being a partial elimination of the interference from atmospherics

"This method, however, is not adapted to broadcast reception."

"Nickeloceries" For The City "Snack-Snatchers"

New York— Nickeloceries, grocery-ettes, jitney feed, or whatever you want to call thimble orders of groceries, are New York's latest concession to its cliff dwellers.

G. V. Quinlan, born New Yorker and life-long grocer, has started a five-and-ten-cent grocery store right off the Broadway theatrical district where many troupers live. He sells 450 articles of food for a nickel or dime each.

"We cater to the one-room apartment-ites. 'Nothing left on the window sill' is our motto," Quinlan said.

ECONOMY'S THEIR WATCHWORD

"I've been in the grocery business for almost 20 years. I've watched this business change from the old days when folks bought a whole hog or none to today when a woman wants just enough for one meal, because she has no place to keep it and no ice.

"People like to eat in, especially couples. But if they buy a box or jar of bacon, ordinary sized cans of beans, fruit and so on, the bill is high and the food spoils before they finish it. I arrange 'dinner specials' that feed two for about 75 cents and nothing left over. They are going like hot cakes."

One of these specialties consists of the following: six slices of bacon, 10 cents; 3 eggs, 10 cents; four slices of bread with a cold pat of butter for each, 10; jam, 5; can of peas, 10; fruit salad or shrimp cocktail, 10, crackers and cheese, 10; six tablespoons of coffee, 5, and cream and sugar, 5.

A LUNCHEON MENU

If it is a midnight party, Quinlan can take care of that, too, with combinations such anchovy paste, hard crackers, cheese and fruit juice for about 35 cents.

His establishment looks like a playstore for children. Shelves contain little cans about the size of vanity cases with such delicacies as caviar, pate de fois gras or mushrooms. There are larger cans about the size of small soup containers, with different vegetables, fruits, soups, and so on. Meats come in smaller tins. Breakfast foods are the sample package size. In fact Quinlan buys samples of many articles and many standard brands are being put up in small sizes for him.

THRIVES ON SMALL SALES

Women enter, pick up basket, serve themselves or point out the ice cold slice of melon, the cheese or butter they want in the ice box. At the door Quinlan or one of his two assistants checks and makes change. The average sale is 35 cents.

Asked if he was sure a woman hadn't given him the idea for his store, Quinlan answered:

"No, siree! Theer are no women in my life. I've just stuck to groceries. I'm opening up my second chain on the East Side soon. I believe they are practical in crowded sections of any city."

G. V. Quinlan . . . he leaves nothing on the window sill.

PRINTS FROM OLD TEXTS

Decorators, recognizing beauty in the daintily colored and exquisitely drawn flower prints in old books of botany, have sought eagerly for them in old bookstalls. These colored illustrations, some small and some as much as as 15 inches square, have been taken out and glass-covered and passe-partouted simply with black gold or a lovely apple-green. Paired, they hang over a sofa or a desk, where they express the vogue for the quaint.

CAVE FAMILY TO BE EVICTED BY CITY COUNCIL

BY ALLENE SUMNER

The nice dry warm chalk cave which the Fones family, mother, father and two daughters, found in Kent some years ago, is to be taken away from them. The Cave Family is to be evicted. Even though they beg to stay on and offer to pay rent for the cave, the Kent city council which owns the chalk pit says that they must go. The National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children tried to get them out of the cave before this. But they reluctantly reported that they could find no fault with the treatment of the children.

A nice little home was fitted up in the bottom of the chalk pit, which was ten feet long and ten feet wide. There was a radio, a dog, and all the comforts of home in that pit, but because society does not accept people who live in chalk pits, society insists that people who do not live where there is electricity and gas and running water and upstairs and downstairs and furnaces and room partitions and dumbwaiters and basements and built-in furniture must straightaway be pushed into ways of conformity.

You see, the implication is that if some people can find all these "necessities" for which we slave our lives away utter non-necessities, it pulls from under us the props of our own self-satisfaction!

MARYE and "MOM" Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Dear Mom:

I've been so busy writing to you lately about myself, that I have never told you about the interesting people up at Madame Elise's shop.

In the first place, Madame Elise herself is a character. With no particular background, she has assumed the manners of a duchess, and a French name and a French accent, and the way she has her patrons bluffed is marvelous.

But to the people here in the shop, she is human, and extraordinarily kind. And the women who cut, fit, and really carry on the work of the place adore her.

She is very particular about the girls she allows to be her mannequins, and all of them are really fine girls, who live at home and who model for fun—except Helen, who happens to be the loveliest model of all—and is the most sought after one in town.

Helen is the most amazing character you have ever seen. She looks like an angel—her hair parted in the middle and coiled on her neck, blue eyes, wide apart, and a mouth that is everything a mouth should be, and a figure like nothing I ever even aspired to.

Helen is simply pursued by the richest men in town—married or single. If I ever want Alan to leave me flat, I'll just officiate at a meeting between him and her—and so long as I want him myself, I'll see that he never meets her.

Madame Elise is very much worried for fear she may lose her looks, because of her late hours. And yet she is the best advertisement the shop has ever had, for every time she appears at a night club in a new frock, a line forms on the right the next morning for duplicate orders.

To look at Helen, you would think that she had generations of aristocracy behind her—yet she told me quite frankly that her mother was a washwoman, and that she herself had never known what a square meal was until she began to work in the railroad restaurant back in her home town.

A few years ago, Madame Elise was touring through the town and saw Helen, and according to Helen she is the product of Madame Elise's own hands. She brought her to the city, allowed her to work in the shop part of the day, and to piece out her education that had stopped in the fifth grade in the evening. She corrected her language, taught her to observe how smart women talked, and dressed, and today Helen is actually the toast of the town. Her heaviest suitor is the son of the richest man in town, and he is dying to marry her—and she is in love with a penniless young boy who writes music—and will probably never have a dime. Isn't life contradictory?

Lovingly, MARYE.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Bartlett pears, cereal, cream, liver and bacon cakes, graham muffins, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Ham timbales, potatoes au gratin, endive with French dressing, grandmother's raspberry pudding, milk, tea.

GRANDMOTHER'S RASPBERRY PUDDING

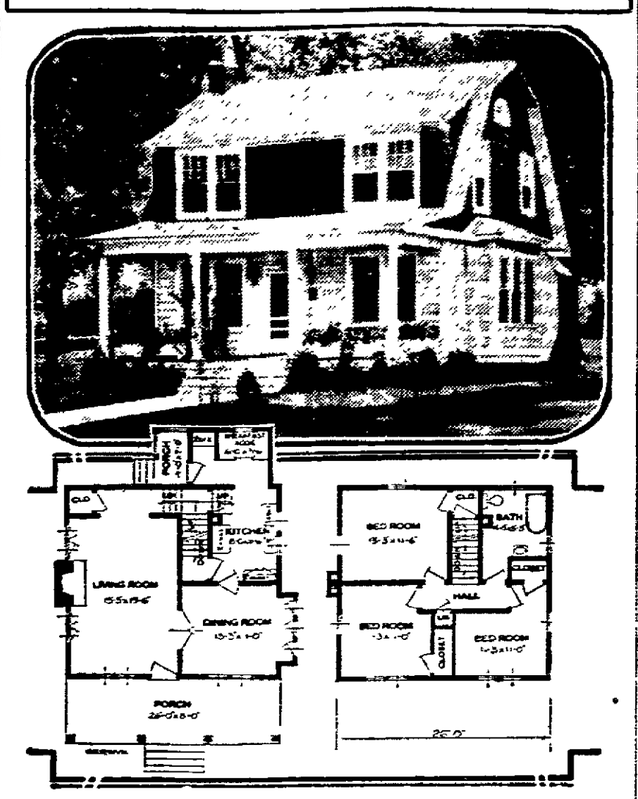
One quart berries, 1 cup sugar, 1-3 cup water, bread, butter.

Combine sugar and water and melt over a low fire. Add berries and simmer 20 minutes. In the meantime cut thin slices of bread, trim off crusts and spread with softened butter. Butter a bowl or pudding dish and fill with alternate layers of bread and berries, making the first and last layer of bread. Press firmly so that the bread will absorb the berry syrup. Chill for several hours. Unmold when ready to serve and serve with whipped cream.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS—

Six feet still is the height of most girls' ambitions.

SPACIOUS AND COOL



SPACE, space everywhere—and not an inch to waste. That's the Berwyn, a house that looks and "lives," larger than it really is. The cost, too, is an item that is not easily guessed, for the Berwyn can be built for a little more than $5000.

Home-lovers with an eye to comfort on hot summer evenings will welcome the long, deep front porch that so easily can be shaded with vines or awnings. The interior is cool, too, for there are plenty of windows on both floors and a full-length attic insulates the bedrooms from the roof heat.

The living room is 19 by 13 feet. A fireplace is flanked on each side by double windows. Opening on this room is the dining room, with five windows and a front exposure. The kitchen is small and conveniently arranged, and has stairs to the first upper landing. Behind the kitchen is a breakfast room with a window. Right next to it is the refrigerator.

Three bedrooms on the second floor open on a small hall. Each room has two exposures and ample closet space. There is a linen closet in the hall.

COLLEGE BOYS BLUFF IN WIFE REQUISITE LIST

BY ALLENE SUMNER

Once more some college boys submit in writing a list of what they consider prime requisites in a wife. And once again the demand that she be a "good housekeeper" leads all the rest, far outstripping such things as "beauty," "virtue," and "good temper." And, as usual, one knows that the college boys are fibbing.

Rationally they may admit with their common sense that a girl who is a "good housekeeper" makes the best wife. But just try matching a girl who is known to be a peerless housekeeper, but is plain of looks, against a girl who boasts that she can't "boil an egg" but who is beautiful, with that irresistible "It" about her.

No one male will angle for the first damsel. There'll be a dozen after the last one mentioned.

Household Hints

NEW ORIENTAL RUGS

Numdah rugs, Hindoo saddlecloths, now appearing on our markets, "feel" with things Colonial just as well as the other more commonly known Orientals. Their shaggy, fine Angora goat hair when embroidered in wools of Oriental colors with the long "Tree of Life" or pomegranate design suggest the Jacobean crewel work. They are seamless rugs, six feet by four.

CARE OF HOOKED RUGS

In the nursery the hooked rugs of animals, birds and flowers are suitable but must be placed where they will not slip or kick up in play. In other rooms, painted floors, possibly of soft, grayish green or dull red may show them off to advantage.

Use Gentleness And Care When Child Shows Fear

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THERE are two kinds of fear. One a child is born with. The other he acquires as his experiences of life increase.

The first kind, known to psychologists by various names and never fully analyzed, is a difficult thing to deal with, difficult in two ways. First the parent cannot help the child to overcome it without calling his attention to the fact that he is afraid. To suggest that he is afraid may set in his conscious mind the idea of fear. It works in a circle.

The child is not conscious of this fear. It manifests itself as sort of a vague premonition, an awareness of some ever-present danger. At any rate it causes him great unhappiness. Probably it is born of centuries of man's wanderings when the instinct of self-preservation was more necessary than the urge for food.

Pathological clinics have discovered that in an amazing number of small children there is a decided fear of death. That is surprising in a child who has had no association or knowledge of death. It is purely instinctive.

On this fear is, in all likelihood, based the other fear with which we are more familiar and which the child acquires by actual or suggested experience. This is known as objective and has a decided impetus toward certain things such as the dark, a noise, an animal, fire, a distorted person, or an unfamiliar object.

These are bad things and a child should be protected from them by every effort of which his parents are capable. They are bad for a normal child but for the unhappy child obsessed by the voyage instinctive fear, they are disastrous.

Never scold a child for being afraid. Probably no other trait calls for so much patience on the part of a parent as this unaccountable shrinking from people and things. In such a child, a tub of water may arouse his fear to the point of agony. He may have an aversion to a certain flight of stairs, or a strong wind. The best way to do is to try carefully and gently to show him that these things are harmless. Never try to force him. Time will do wonders.

But to add to his terror by threats or ridicule is cruel and silly. Never call him a coward. And never make fun of him.

Threatening him with a dark closet, the policeman or a bear, is unthinkable. Parents today should know better. These tactics are usually employed in the mistaken idea that a child is being disciplined. He isn't. He is being tortured and ruined.

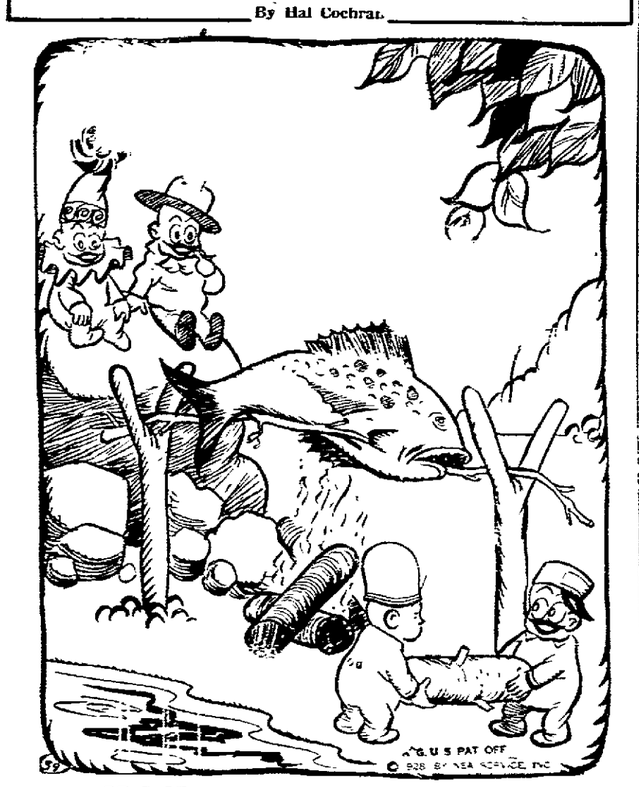
THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran



READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE monstrous fish was grazed around, and finally landed on the ground. It flopped away up on the air, and almost go away. The Tinies thought this fun was fine and hung on tightly to the line. "We've hooked him good," cried Scouty, "but he still feels rather gay."

Again the fish flopped on its side. "Hey, sit on him," one Tiny cried. And that's what Clowny tried to do. The fish would not hold still. It gave poor Clowny quick a whack and landed him upon his back. 'Course Clowny didn't like this, but it gave the rest a thrill.

And then they all heard Coppy shout, "Let him alone. He'll soon tire out." And sure enough, the big fish did. 'Twas quiet as could be. "We have him now," somebody said. They got sharp rocks and went close. 'Twas what the scales went flying was a funny sight to see.

"Just think," cried Clowny, "we can eat! I'll bet this fish will taste real sweet. Let's gather wood and build a fire and roast him till he's done." The rest of us pick up the wood in a mix up the fun, real good. Pile hurry now." And as the Tinymites began to run.

The roaring soon was over a blaze. Then Clown, took a great big stick and poked the fish over. Every thing was now all set. They got two stones and rubbed them well to start the fire. "Say, this is swell," yelled Scouty. "When the fish is done, I'll eat a lot, you bet."

The flames shot upwards in the air, around the big fish hanging there. "Keep hands off," shouted Carpo. "It is much to hot to touch. Well watch it closely for a spell. I'm fairly sure that I can tell just when to put the fire out, so it will not cook too much."

(The Tinies meet the talking fish in the next story).

W.C.T.U. To Follow Plan Of President

THE Womens Christian Temperance Union of this city will carry out suggestions made by Mrs. Annie Wayman Warren of Stoughton, president of the Wisconsin group, in a recent issue of the monthly temperance paper issued by the union at Waupaca, inasmuch as the Appleton chapter will take an active part in the coming elections.

The tentative program of the local union includes sending questionnaires to candidates to ascertain their stand on the prohibition question, personal interviews with candidates, securing the latest literature against liquor prepared by the national organization and a district rally to be held before election.

Mrs. Warren has asked that members of the Womens Christian Temperance union in Wisconsin study the election situation, "talk much and pray much." The Appleton chapter met Thursday afternoon for regular business at the home of Mrs. John Graef, 504 W. Atlantic-st. No plans were made for the next meeting.

MRS. THOMAS AND VITS INVITED TO G. O. P. COUNCIL

Invitations Indicate "Regulars" Keep Seats on National Committee

George Vits of Marinette and Mrs. Harry E. Thomas of Sheboygan, regular republicans are expected soon to be named as Wisconsin members of the republican national committee as the result of an invitation which they have received from Hubert Work, Hoover campaign director, to participate in a national committee conference in Chicago, Aug. 4.

Both Mr. Vits and Mrs. Thomas have received invitations from Mr. Work to attend this conference. Herman L. Ekern of Madison and Elizabeth McCormick of Superior, La Follette national committee candidates, apparently have not been invited.

EKERN NOT NOTIFIED

Mr. Ekern Thursday night said he had received no word from Mr. Work but that he had just returned to Madison and had not inspected all his mail. Elizabeth McCormick stated that she had received no invitation.

The Wisconsin national committee dispute was referred by the Kansas City republican national convention to the national committee for settlement. The committee in turn referred the controversy to its executive committee.

The dispute has since that time remained in the hands of the executive committee and no settlement had been announced. However, the invitation to Mr. Vits and Mrs. Thomas to attend the Chicago conference is regarded as proof that the national committee intends to deal with the regular republican contestants throughout the Hoover campaign and to ignore the La Follette-Blaine candidates.

CHOSEN BY COMMITTEE

Mrs. Thomas and Mr. Vits were elected as members of the national committee to fill two vacancies at a meeting of the state central committee in Madison last December. This was the first time in a quarter of a century that Wisconsin regular republicans had obtained national committee places.

However, the state central committee only has power to fill vacancies. Members of the national committee are named for the four year period by the state delegation at the national convention. This selection, in turn, is ratified or rejected by the convention.

The seventeen La Follette-Norris delegates at the Kansas City convention voted for Mr. Ekern and Miss McCormick to succeed Mr. Vits and Mrs. Thomas. The nine regular republican delegates voted for Vits and Mrs. Thomas.

REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

A majority and a minority report was presented to the convention which referred the Wisconsin dispute, together with a dispute in Georgia, to the national committee.

The letter from Mr. Work to Mr. Vits and Mrs. Thomas states that he has called a conference of the national committeemen and national committeewomen in the Drake hotel Chicago.

Mr. Work's letter states that the purpose of this meeting is to make reports, exchange views and to perfect further plans of organization and campaign work.

It also states that Mrs. Alvin T. Hart is expected to hold a conference with the national committeewomen and vice chairwomen during that day or evening.

A similar meeting will be held in San Francisco in the Palace hotel, Aug. 13, for the members who reside in the western part of the country.

Mr. Work's letter states he is anxious that Mr. Vits and Mrs. Thomas attend the meeting.

Even though the executive committee should delay setting the controversy officially, Mr. Work's letter is interpreted to mean that Mr. Vits and Mrs. Thomas will continue as virtually the official Wisconsin members of the national committee.

KAW-LITTLE CHUTE GAME EXPECTED TO BE PITCHERS DUEL

Smith's Nine Hopes to Jump into Tie for First Place With a Victory

Kaukauna —What is considered to be the crucial ball game of the season will be played between Kaukauna and Kimberly-Little Chute teams at 2:30 Sunday afternoon at the Kaukauna park. The batteries will be Pocan and Hartjes for the Chuters and Abrott and Wenzel for Kaukauna. Pocan is expected by the Hollanders to fan enough of the locals to keep Little Chute in first place and Abrott, who pitched a no hit game against the Hollanders in the last contest, is expected by Kaukauna fans to keep up his good record so the Kawmen will slide into a tie for the top link. Both teams have been playing tiptop ball for the last several games and have all baseball fans on their toes waiting to see what happens when the "wont-be-beaten" meets the "can't-be-beaten."

Both teams have heavy hitters with an eye for the ball, but if both pitchers are doing well, the fans may not see any balls travel over the fence. The game is most likely to be a battle between pitchers.

In addition to the regular game, a feature game will be played between the oldtimers of Little Chute and Kaukauna. This game will give many of the old baseball fans a chance to see their one time favorites in action. Arrangement are also being made to have the Kaukauna Moose band and the Little Chute band to liven things up.

The probable lineup for the Kaukauna and Kim-Little Chute game will be:

Kim-Little Chute	Kaukauna
Kotal, ss	Cramer, lb
Schell, lb	Moore, cf
B. Lamers, lf	Les Smith, lf
C. Pocan, p	Wenzel, c
L. Thein, 3b	Ray Smith, ss
M. Lamers, 2b	Gertz, 2b
C. Lemmers, cf	Phillips, 3b
Vander Loop, rf	Sager, rf
Hartjes, c	Abrott, p

PHOTOGRAPHER HAS UNUSUAL RECORD

Pioneer Has Been in Business at Kaukauna for Thirty-four Years

Kaukauna—Mende Richardson, a pioneer photographer in this city, has a record that probably is unique in the Fox river valley and probably in the whole state.

He has been in business in this city for 34 years and has seen the city grow from a small village to its present size. He has seen large factories locate and he has taken pictures of some of the towns leading citizens from the time they were in knee pants until they were full-grown men occupying places of importance in the community.

When Mr. Richardson came to Kaukauna in 1894 he opened a studio near what is now the high school auditorium. Two years later, after the Lawe-st bridge was built, Mr. Richardson moved to his present location and he has been there ever since. Other photographers have located here in the interval but they never stayed.

Mr. Richardson has taken pictures of Kaukauna's omst important civic events, picnics and other celebrations. He has pictures of most of the important business places and industrial buildings in the city and he has pictures of most of the prominent citizens. Mr. Richardson does quite a bit of commercial work for the local mills.

When he first started in business 42 years ago in Manitowic Mr. Richardson had to do a good deal of his work without the aid of electricity and other modern inventions. He had to make all his own wet plates and papers and printing of pictures was done in the sunlight. Now most of the important developing done with the aid of electric equipment which enables the photographer to work much faster.

The largest family group picture taken by Richardson, contained 20 people. Mr. Richardson says the family groups today are not as large as they were 20 or 30 years ago.

HAS LITTLE TO DO; FINDS FAULT WITH SHAPE OF MOTHBALLS

Madison —(AP)—Moth balls are all right in their way, efficient little things and a great help to the human race and all that..... ..... but their shape!

Comes now a lady who objects to the shape of a moth ball.

She would increase the efficiency of the naptha elements by making them flat or some shape so they would stay put — so that children wouldn't confuse them with ball gum.

Miss H. Manning, associate professor of home economics at the University of Wisconsin, brought this up. She was discussing methods of preserving clothes.

Remedial methods include thorough cleaning and sunning, storage in paper and cold storage, control with chemicals such as napthalene, paradichlorobenzone, and champhor, several forms of fumigation, and proper precautions for control through use of properly made cedar chests.

AUTOMOBILE SALES SHOW BIG INCREASE IN PAST 5 YEARS

Statistics Show That There Has Been One Car Sold for Every Five People

Cleveland, O.— Sales of American made automobiles abroad have increased by 425 per cent during the last five years and a further important gain is taking place this year. As a result of this large expansion, foreign buying of motor cars now ranks third in the list of the country's exports, according to President J. R. Nutt, of The Union Trust Company, here.

"Expanding markets abroad offer the most favorable solution for the full employment of the country's growing automotive productive capacity," says Nutt in the bank's magazine, Trade Winds. "Whether or not the saturation point is near in this country, there is a vast potential demand for cars among other peoples.

"The world outside of the United States is rapidly becoming motor-minded. Last year the value of automobile exports totaled $406,000,000. They were surpassed only by raw cotton and petroleum and exceeded exports of wheat and flour by $82,000,000. Foreign purchases of American motor cars in 1927 equalled new registration of cars in 20 of our states put together.

AMERICA FAR AHEAD

"In the United States there is one car for every five people, or virtually one car for each family. The average for the world as a whole is 59 persons for every car. At the extreme of the scale is China with one car for every 20,000 inhabitants.

"Next to the United States is Canada with 10 persons per car. Australia is third with 14 persons per car, and the United Kingdom is fourth with 37 persons per car. In France there are 40 persons for each car, while Germany has only one car for every 148 persons.

"Obstacles in the path of motor car exports include tariff barriers abroad, high gasoline prices and taxes in foreign countries, poor roads, competition of native manufacturers and reduced purchasing power of potential producers. Tariff barrier are directed especially against assembled cars, with the result that in 1928 probably over 200,000 cars made of American parts will be assembeled in plants abroad.

"So far the automobile industry in no European country has developed to the point where it is an extremely active competitor with American quantity produced popular makes. The rate of growth of motor car exports is seen in the fact that five years ago exports totaled 78,000 units, while in 1928 it is estimated that 450,000 cars and trucks will be shipped abroad.

"At present capacity of the automobile industry, an output of approximately 4,000,000 cars annually is needed for reasonable prosperity. Replacement demand is about 2,500,000 cars annually in the United States and Canada. New buying this year is running at the rate of over 1,000,000 cars, so that the estiamted exports of 450,000 will bring the total demand up to, or above 4,000,000 cars.

"With European conditions making marked progress toward financial stabilization and industrial recovery, present prospects are for continued large expansion of exports of American automobiles."

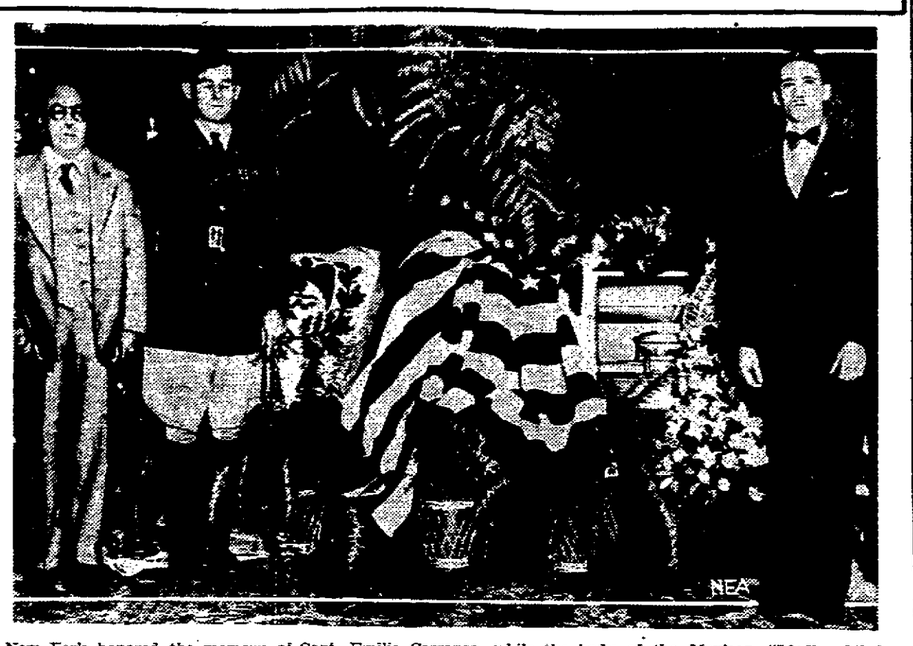
HONOR TO MEXICAN "LINDBERGH"



New York honored the memory of Capt. Emilio Carranza, while the body of the Mexican "Lindbergh" lay in state at a Broadway undertaker's. Following services in New York, the body was to be taken to Mexico City by special train. Carranza crashed in New Jersey en route from New York to Mexico City, after repaying Lindbergh's Mexican visit. In the picture, left to right, are: Arturo Elias, Mexican consul-general in New York; Capt. R. Wise, U. S. A., and Eduardo Malvido. The casket was draped with the Mexican flag and the Stars and Stripes.

LARGE POSTERS GIVE A LESSON IN THRIFT

Madison—(AP)—A large poster bearing the inscription "High production and low cost go together," designed by the agricultural division of the University of Wisconsin will soon appear on rural bulletin boards.

The above statement is illustrated with the picturing of three milk cans. The sale price of each is given as $2.30 a cwt.

Below the first can is 20 Lincoln pennies, the first farmer's profit. The second famer's profit is five cents and the third suffered a loss of 59 cents.

Why? The poster asks, and answers:

Because the first farmers cows averaged 8,622 pounds of milk yearly costing $2.10 per hundred pounds.

The second's averaged 7,130 pounds of milk yearly costing $2.25 per hundred pounds.

The third farmer's cows produced only 5,200 pounds yearly average at a minimum cost of $2.89.

ADD NORTH MILWAUKEE TO MILWAUKEE IN 1929

Milwaukee —(AP)—Consolidation of North Milwaukee with the city of Milwaukee will take place Jan. 1, 1929, if plans drawn up Wednesday night between the consolidation committees of the two common councils are carried to completion.

The procedure mapped out Wednesday night will enable the Milwaukee suburb to become a part of this city in time to be included in the 1930 federal census, a basis for redistricting the entire city as to wards.

The consolidation proposition, when aproved by the common councils of both municipalities, will be submitted to the voters of North Milwaukee in September and to those of Milwaukee in November.

RESULTS OF TESTING CATTLE ARE TOLD AT HORTONVILLE PICNIC

Outagamie - co Has More Tested Cattle Than Any Other, Amundson Declares

BY W. F. WINSEY

Hortonville—A large crowd attended the annual picnic of the Ellington-Outagamie Herd Improvement Association at the home of E. and M. Breitrick, route 1, Wednesday. The outstanding features of the day were, a basket dinner served cafeteria style by the women of the association, talks by George C. Humphrey of the Department of Animal Husbandry, College of Agriculture, Paul C. Burchard, editor of Hoard's Dairyman and Secretary of the Wisconsin Dairymen's Association, Roy Harris, Superintendent of Advanced Registry and Assistant Secretary of the State Dairymen's Association, E. R. McIntyre, Editor of the Wisconsin Farmer, Robert Amundson and J. N. Kavanaugh, county agents, music by the Tiedt Band, town of Center and cattle judging. Mr. Amundson introduced the speakers.

Mr. Burchard in his talk described discouraging conditions under which farmers were operating when they were changing from grain raising to dairying 50 years ago. At that time they were increasing the size of their herds, producing milk and feeling their way in the manufacture of butter and cheese. They had no established market for these products and were dependent upon the wagons sent to factories by local buyers.

MADE OWN MARKET

When the prospect for the new industry was gloomy in 1872, six men among them Governor Hoard, who had vision and faith in dairying, met at Watertown to organize the industry on a business basis. They arranged better freight rates on dairy products, planned to exhibit Wisconsin cheese in Milwaukee, Philadelphia, in the south, and in other central points of consumption.

By advertising in this and in other ways, they created a market for Wisconsin cheese. They sent out inspectors to cheese factories to show cheese makers how to improve the quality of their product.

Through legislation, they prevented the sale of Oleomargerine as butter and the manufacture of filled cheese. They did these things through the Wisconsin Dairymen's association.

In 1896 the first cow testing association in the United States was organized at Rosendale. Now there are 170 such associations in Wisconsin with a membership of 4,500.

At this point in his talk, Mr. Burchard quoted statistics to show that cow testing has done in Wisconsin to increase profits of dairying and argued that dairying cannot be overdone. The price of milk is highest it has been since 1920; the population has increased 16,000,000. milk campaigns are on to teach the people to drink more milk; the per capita consumption of milk has increased 42 gallons to 62 gallons in 10 years.

"We are looking for greater cow efficiency and wider markets in the future," he concluded.

SHOWS GOOD RESULTS

Mr. Harris said that he did not come to the picnic to talk but to see what is being done in the way of testing cows in the Ellington-Outagamie association. In checking up the record of Mr. Breitrick's cows since he joined the association in 1919, he found the average yearly herd production of butter fat had been increased 45 pounds.

This checking up is worth while from a business standpoint but the money value of cow testing may be over emphasized, according to the speaker and another value of a cow testing association may be overlooked.

In places where cow testing associations are organized and at work, the community spirit runs higher than in other places where the people are not accustomed to working together.

After people are accustomed to work together in a cow testing association, they are ready to join hands in much larger public enterprises.

"The very best cows of your herd should be kept in your herd for your own use," said Mr. Humphrey, "and only the surplus offspring of such cows should be sold.

"This cow testing association has been one of the factors in the development of the Breitrick herd and making this farm pay as well as it does. Some of the other factors are the vision, continuous policy and business capacity of the owner."

ARE WELL ORGANIZED

"Cow testing has taught us improved methods of feeding cows and how to raise the grade of our cows. Cow testing records are an effective means of advertising our herds and they attract a high class of outside buyers.

"I am glad to come to this community where you have so many good herds, where there are so many farm organizations and, especially, so many cow testing associations.

"Dairying is as good a business as any other if it is conducted with progressive plans, good methods of feeding and testing for production. It is attention to breeding, grading, testing and keeping tab on these that increases to the profits of your herd that makes you prosperous.

"It costs some dairymen 45 cents to produce a pound of butter fat and others 85 cents. The latter should either improve his methods or get out of the dairy business. The former should continue as he has a chance to make money."

Mr. Kavanaugh entertained the picnickers with cartoons and rapid fire jokes and stories.

Mr. Amundson said there are more tested cows in Outagamie county than in any county of the state.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

One of the Contract principles I like to stress is that no bid has slam significance until a game-going bid has been made; to put it in another way, that no bid less than a game-goer sets the contract for slam bidding. But here is an exception. Suppose that a Contract Dealer, who was using the Minor two-bid to show a two-suiter, held the following hand:

and bid two Diamonds to indicate that he held a strong Major two-suiter. If his partner should bid three Hearts, showing not only preference for Hearts (a two-Heart bid would indicate that) but real help in addition, it would be obvious to the Dealer that the eventual contract must be Hearts and that the final bid should be at least a game-goer in that suit. With such great strength and assistance assured for Hearts in the Dummy, there is, however, a good chance for slam. If the Dealer should bid four Hearts, that doubtless would end the auction and a slam, even if made, would not carry a slam premium.

There are two ways in which the Dealer might try for slam; one would be by bidding five instead of four Hearts, and the other by bidding four Clubs. The former would fail to produce results if the partner felt that all his strength had been shown by his bid of three; then he would not go on with Hearts toward a slam. The four-Club bid, however, would work with a thinking partner in spite of the fact that no game-going Heart bid had been made. The initial bid of two Diamonds showed a Major two-suiter. With a Major two-suiter it is impossible to have a Minor suit of such length that it could be preferred as the trump; therefore, after the partner's Heart jump, the contract really is set, although a game-going bid has not been made; therefore the Club bid must be a slam-shower.

Consequently in the above case, the Dealer should bid four Clubs and give his partner the opportunity to bid four Diamonds if he hold the Ace of Diamonds. Without the Ace of Diamonds he would bid four Hearts and Dealer, knowing the Ace of Diamonds was against him, would apreciate that a slam would be too dangerous.

"THE DEVIL'S SKIPPER" COMING TO ELITE THEATRE

"The Devil's Skipper" a Tiffany-Stahl production, suggested by the Jack London story "Demetrious Contos" will be the feature picture attraction coming to the Elite Theatre tomorrow and Sunday. It is said that Belle Bennett who plays the title role in this dramatic story will be seen in one of her greatest character roles with Montagu Love playing opposite. Other members of the cast include Cullen Landis, Mary McAlister, Gino Corrado, G. Raymond Nye, Pat Hartigan, Adolph Millar, Frank Leigh, Phillip Sleeman, Steppin Fetchit and Carolynne Snowden The picture was directed by John G. Adolfi from an adaptation by John Francis Natteford.

"The Devil's Skipper" tells a graphic story of a woman captain of a slave ship who when a young and beautiful belle of New Orleans, married to the son of a wealthy family, and the mother of a baby girl, is torn from her child, shanghaied aboard a sailing vessel where she has to fight for her life against great odds and saved from a terrible fate by one of the crew. Later she becomes the skipper of the slave ship, and in the course of her business dealings comes to New Orleans twenty years after her kidnapping. She plans revenge upon the man who was the cause of her unhappy life. It is in meeting this man that the great highlights of the story unfold.

THE ACTRESS

The thousands of screen stars who knew and loved Norma Shearer for her marvelous delineation of Kathie in "The Student Prince" as well as those who admired the feminine traveling saleswoman of "The Latest From Paris," will find both their favorite characters combined in Miss Shearer's new picture, "The Actress," which opened Friday at Fischers Appleton theatre.

The Miss Shearer of "The Actress" is an actress indeed—a finished player of ripened powers fully capable of using her abilities in the most dramatic manner. Her Rose is woman of supreme charm, at times a gay, hoydenish wrecker of human hearts and again a serious searcher after the supreme truths of existence. In either role she is equally appealing.

The story is the familiar one of "Trelawney of the Wells" adapted and improved in its translation to the silver screen. The plot concerns an actress in one of the minor theaters of London who loves a aristocrat, whose father, naturally perhaps, objects to the union. On this network, Sidney Franklin has reared a structure of laughs and pathos that has seldom been excelled on the screen.

Ralph Forbes does easily the best work of his career with the role of Arthur Gower. His part is reserved yet effective, dignified yet intense. He will go far.

Owen Moore as the playwright who loves and loses, Gwen Lee and Roy D'Arcy as the actors, and perhaps best of all, O. P. Heggie as the terrible and unforgiving Sir William, will make screen history. Lee Moran is also effective in a comedy bit.

The story deals in dramatic fashion with the courtship of a popular young actress by a young scion of wealth and aristocracy whose parents oppose the union. The ensuing conflict provides scenes of unforgettable intensity, in which Miss Shearer is superb.

BOB COMES TO AID OF CITY'S WEED CUTTERS

Bob Hackworthy, Appleton's street commissioner, wants to inform the world that his employes are not as dumb as they are cracked up to be—neither are they dumber. The only reason Appleton people suffer the loss of their taxpayer when an employe of the street department starts cutting weeds, he says, is that the weeds are so high and the bushes so small it takes someone with a magnifying glass to find them. But even if people would watch the high weeds like they watch the small bushes, he wouldn't have to send a man to cut the weeds.

PIONEERS WILL HEAR BALLARD OR GOVERNOR

Clifford Ballard, superintendent of public property at Madison will be the chief speaker at the Outagamie Pioneer association picnic July 28 at the Hortonville fair grounds if Governor Fred R. Zimmerman is unable to come, according to Fred E. Harriman secretary of association. Mr. Ballard formerly lived in Grand Chute and is one of the founders of the association and one of the first treasurers.

Cards announcing the picnic are to be sent out this week. The final plans are now being arranged.

RUTH'S HOMERS WIN SECOND GAME IN TWO DAYS FOR YANKS

Bambino Helps Faltering Hurlers To Turn In Close Wins Over Rejuvenated Sox

Athletics Win Pair to Shave Half-game from Large Lead of Huggins Sluggers

Babe Ruth is nothing if not obliging. The has slugged three homers in the past two days and they've won two ball games for the New York Yankees.

Thursday Herb Pennock was unsteady most of the way but the Babe pulled him through to a 6-4 victory by propelling his thirty-seventh and 18 circuit clouts into the stands, each time with Earl Combs on base.

The Athletics shaved half a game off the champions' lead by turning back St. Louis in both ends of a double bill, 2 to 0 and 4 to 3, the latter in 11 innings. Both games were pitchers' battles.

Owen Carroll pitched the Detroit Tigers to a 9 to 3 triumph over the Washington Senators in the first game of a double header but Milt Gaston reversed matters in the second, the Senators walking off with an easy 7 to 2 win.

Ed Morris registered his 13th pitching victory of the year as the Boston Red Sox evened the series with Cleveland, 3 to 2 in 11 innings. Rolling's double, a sacrifice fly by Ken Williams and Taitt's single accounted for the winning marker.

Over in the National League the St. Louis Pace-setting Cardinals added more woe to the unlucky Phillies. The Cards just barely nosed out a 6 to 5 verdict that marked the Phils' eleventh straight defeat.

BREAK PIRATE STREAK

Meantime the Brooklyn Dodgers snapped a nine-game winning streak rolled up by the defending league champions, the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3 to 0.

Boston finally managed to end a nine-game losing streak by pounding out a 9 to 4 verdict over the Cincinnati Reds. The Reds called upon four pitchers to stem the tide but it was to no avail.

WILLS INTERESTED IN BEAR OARSMEN

Hears California Is U. S. Olympic Crew Hope on Return from Abroad

New York—(AP)—Helen Wills, who has won the women's championships of the United States, France and England without the loss of a set, is home again, more interested in the showing the California crew will make in the Olympic games and in the newest tennis sensation, the dropping of William T. Tilden from the Davis cup team, than in her own successes.

Returning to America Thursday night on the Mauretania, accompanied by her mother and her doubles partner, Penelope Anderson of Richmond ,Va., Miss Wills learned for the first time that her college's eight had been chosen as America's Olympic crew.

With even greater surprise she heard the news of Tilden's being dropped from the Davis Cup team. The California star made few comments, preferring to wait until she could learn all the facts of the case.

"It is too bad, indeed," she said. "And it does seem unfortunate at this time. "I didn't even know he was writing any articles from Wimbdelon.

"Tilden has been playing beautifully abroad and he is such a marvelous player. Of course he does seem to get tired. but all who watched him said they never saw such strokes as he performed."

Concerning her own activities in writing Miss Wills said she did not believe they would interfere with her amateur standing. She has written only about tennis in general. not about any matches in which she has participated."

She expressed regret at the loss of the Wightman cup matches in which she took part, by the American women's team. "They were too strong for us," she said, "especially in the doubles. They seem to understand this sport of play much better and they play together a great deal more. Perhaps we can bring the cup back next year."

KIMBERLY NINE BLANKS WISCONSIN RAPIDS MEN

Kimberly — The Kimberly-Little Chute baseball team journeyed to Wisconsin Rapids Wednesday where they defeated the team representing that city 1 to 0. It was the third shutout game for the Papermakers in a row and as in the Fond du Lac game last Sunday Kotal scored the winning run.

Kimberly scored in the first inning on Kotal's single, a sacrifice, and Butch Thein's hit into right centerfield.

The Rapids team got three hits while the Valley Leaguers got four. In the ninth inning the first man up for the Raids got a single, and then Vader Loop walked the next man. Marty Lamers then went into the box and the first man to face him sacrificed, advancing the runners to second and third. The next batter hit a fly, a line drive, to Vander Loop who tossed it to Kotal on second for a double play to end the game.

A large crowd witnessed the game which was said to be one of the best at the Rapids home diamond. The home fans asked that the Kimberly-Little Chute team be brought back to their city before the season ends.

GOLFER-PITCHER USES EITHER ARM

Louisville Colonel Hurler Both Right and Lefthanded Athlete

Louisville, Ky. —(AP)— The only ambidextrous golfer in professional baseball, Joe Deberry, pitcher for the Louisville Colonels in the American Association, whangs the pellet from any stance.

Joe is a devotee of the ancient Scottish game and he finds that by carrying two sets of clubs—a right handed one and left handed one— he can often save a stroke or two when in a difficult position.

So Deberry's caddy does double duty while the angular hurler strides from tee to tee.

"It's just as easy for me to play them from one side as the other—and often easier," Deberry says in explanation of his double-barreled game. "Then, too, having two sets of clubs is not like having two automobiles. It's only the initial cost and not the upkeep that counts."

In addition to his ambidexterity of the links. Joe bats from either side of the plate and can throw equally well with either hand. although he his elected to become a right handed erwirler. He is a switch batter. however. and has been used from time to time as a pinch hitter.

CHAMP TUNNEY IN BEST CONDITION OF FIGHT CAREER

Gene Enters Last Stage of Training in Great Shape; Heat Eases Tom's Work

Speculator, N. Y. —(AP)—Gene Tunney Friday entered the last stage of his training for the defense of his world's heavyweight title against Tom Heeney in better physical shape than he has ever been in his career.

In addition, he was probably better fitted mentally than he ever has been since he took up boxing for a livlihood. He has been training here for almost three months and during that time but two incidents have occurred which caused him any annoyance.

One was the attack on the New York Boxing Commission accredited to Tunney and the other was a baseless rumor that he intended to retire from the ring after the Heeney match, regardless of the decision.

Both of these incidents came up during the past week, but Tunney by his prompt denials overcame them without damage to his high strung temperament.

Friday afternoon Gene was slated to go through the first of his last three training sessions with his sparring partners. During the morning, he planned to hike about six miles, stopping often to get in his shadow boxing.

Fair Haven, N. J.—(AP)—New Zealand may have it's hot moments, but none. Thomas Heeney contends, which can compare with some he has experienced in this vicinity since the weather really warmed up to it's task. For this reason and because the heat took five pounds off his ample frame Thursday, the challenger for Gene Tunney's crown was at ease Friday.

The New Zealand blacksmith has been accused by some of being ready and willing to sit out any of his training periods at the slightest provation, but there seems to be some sense to his decision to do no work Friday. Heeney never was a great shark at mathematics, but several hours with a stub pencil and a primary arithmetic convinced him that a steady grind between now and next Thursday in the prevailing heat would fit him to meet not Gene Tunney but Sammy Mandell at the most.

Heeney has not yet decided upon the exact program which will bring his training here to a close.

KANSAS CITY PULLS CLOSER TO INDIANS

Minneapolis Downs A. A. Leaders While Blues Are Whipping Toledo

Chicago—(AP)—Whatever advantage remains in the increasingly warm struggle for pennant honors in the American Association Friday appeared the exclusive property of Bruno Betzel and his Indianapolis Indians.

Although the Indians are in first place by a margin of two and a half games, they dropped a full game of th advantage as it concluded it's western invasion Thursday when it lost to Minneapolis, 4 to 3, while Kansas City, now in second place, won it's sixth straight by defeating Toledo, 5 to 3. Friday the Blues were but two and a half games from the top.

St. Paul dropped to one-tenth of a percentage point from second place by losing a hard fought game to Louisville, 3 to 2.

Pitcher Ash was largely instrumental in checking the Milwaukee Brewers' three-game winning streak. He pitched fair ball and slammed out four hits. one a double which drove in two runs. The score was Columbus 9, Milwaukee 6.

Frank McGowan. Kansas City outfielder, has been traded to the St. Louis Browns for Frank Wilson, outfielder, who was with Milwaukee last year.

ATHLETICS TO BATTLE ONEIDA HERE SUNDAY

SUNDAY SCHEDULE
ONEIDA AT APPLETON
Hebel's Corners at Combined Locks.
De Pere at Freedom.
Wrightstown at Little Chute.

Either Sternagle or Brautigan will be the mound choice for the Appleton Athletics in their game with the speedy Oneida Indians at Interlake Park Sunday in what should be one of the best battles of the season. The local boys won by an extra close score at Oneida and the Indians, who have been improving rapidly, are thirsting for revenge. Little Chute lost its first game of the season last Sunday and as a result the Athletics, who won, are again in hailing distance of first place. A win Sunday coupled with a Chute loss will carry the local players to a game from the top with two more left to be played but none of them against the Chuters who have tripped the Athletes twice this year. DeYoung will handle the local purlers Sunday.

PARIS PITCHING EASY: YANKS GET 7 HOMERS

Paris —(AP)— Seven homers in one game—two of them in the same inning—were banged out by a player in the Paris League recently.

James H. Duncan. formerly of Brooklyn, N. Y., whose name still appears in the American athletic books as one time world's record holder for the discus throw, did the heavy slugging.

Jim, on a visit to the Colombes Olympic Stadium, was drafted by a team needing a player. He knocked the ball over the fence every time up. His team won, 55 to 23.

This Is One for Nick

Nick Altrock claims to have made more putouts in one season than any other pitcher. He made 49 while with the White Sox in 1904.

U. S. MAY REGAIN LOST RACE HONORS

The showing of these runners at Amsterdam will decide whether America will recapture Olympic foot racing honors now held by foreign athletes Frank Wykoff, 100-meter sensation, qualled the Olympic record four times in one afternoon. Lloyd Hahn and Joie Ray have shown exceptional form in the 1,500-meter and 10,000 meter runs, respectively. Emil Snyder and Ray Earbuti (lower right) are America's best bets in the 40-meter event.

Tunney Appears Sound As Heeney Bout Approaches

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

Speculator, N. Y.—Jack Dempsey's two-time demonstration that natural physical disinteg ration can lead rapidly to the hollow shell stage has made the experts wary of being led again into a reputation shattering trap and the experts who have been looking at Gene Tunney in training came with eyes focused by caution to see the worst

Dempsey, according to popular belief blew up entirely in two years and the cause of his explosion was attributed to soft living and absence from the ring. So those who were fooled into believing that a good hollow shell is better than a fair sound fellow have been peering at Tunney with the conviction that he is now due also to pay the penalty for having fought only 20 rounds in two years.

Tunney agrees with the experts that it is not well for a fighter to remain away from his business too long. but he presents the logical argument that if his legs are strong enough to hold up the body and move it around and if the arms are strong enough to carry the hands the hands will come reasonably close to the target and will get direction with practice.

There is no doubt that Tunney is sound physically. He has not been living a soft life that would reduce him to jelly. He looks even bigger and stronger than he did last year and there is no evident lack of agility and strength in the legs that are so important a part of his fighting mechanism.

We will leave it to the experts to point out to you and tell you the meaning of all the faults that he commits in boxing with his sparring partners. We will leave it to them to tell you what he should be doing that he is not doing. We don't know but what Tunney is doing everything right even if it is not orthodox because on two most auspicious occasions he proved that he knew best how to prepare himself for the fight that he had to make.

He never was fancy in his gymnasium work but what he does and the way he does it seems to have been the best way for him. He will stand or drop on his own theories and that seems to be sufficient justification for the methods that he prefers.

You have heard that his sparring partners are hitting him in the ribs and that he had to send for a beer scar after he had been cuffed on the ear. But he always has been hit by his sparring partners. With one exception, all the scars that he bears were inflicted in the training camp. The one exception is a bad scar on the eyelid that came from a butt Harry Grob gave him in their first fight and caused it to bleed so badly that the referee wanted to stop the fight.

Tunney always has an easy to cut and he bleeds on the slightest pretext. He had a small cut in training two years ago that Bill Gibson was fearful of a reinforcement would be necessary. He feared that Dempsey would work on the sore mouth and crack open the old scar and cut him to pieces at when the time came for [illegible] seen himself from being hit [illegible] serious hitting.

It is only reasonable to assume that 15 rounds against a tough plodding fighter like Heeney will be more of a labor than 10 rounds against a floundering Dempsey last fall. but if Dempsey in his rotund state could take the beating [illegible] for 10 rounds last fall without being stopped there are reasons for the champion's friends to hope at least that he is physically better to endure almost anything for 15 rounds. And it must be remembered that of all the uncomplimentary things that have been said of his fighting qualities it never has been whispered even that he isn't game.

It is quite certain that when Tunney leaves Speculator for the fight that he will not leave any of his fight in the training camp. If he has to call on some reserve power in the ring he will have it. and trainers will tell you that when it is there it will answer the call steadily like second wind.

It is apparent from the lack of any worry around the camp that there is no concern about the influence of outside agencies. They all seem to be certain that if Tunney does not win by a knockout he will cop easily on points. and they do not seem to be perturbed about safeguarding against phony work in awarding the decision.

One of the members of the official family was asked if he did not have the usual fear that some business might be done against the champion. "No," he answered. "In the first place the presence of the Harveys in the other corner assures honesty. And in the second place Tunney knows too much about a certain gang and we have too much on them for them to attempt any business. There won't be a question about fouls, and the decision can't even be close."

LOCAL ELK SHOOTERS INVITED TO TOURNEY

Invitations have been received by trapshooters of Appleton Elk Lodge, No. 337 to take part in the state Elk trapshooting tournament at Oshkosh on Thursday, Aug. 9, and several local shooters are planning on attending. The shooting will start at 9:30 in the morning, rain or shine, at Lake Park, north of E. Irving st. The tourney will be a non-registered program of 100 targets at a 16 yard rise in four events.

Beside the money prizes, awarded by the equitable system, the Oshkosh club will donate suitable merchandise prizes to two high guns in the 100 bird event and one prize to high in the doubles.

The management will endeavor to have an assortment of shells and powder on the grounds and provide lunch for shooters.

SIX LETTERMEN BACK FOR RIPON CAGE FIVE

Ripon—Coach Russell Rippe of Ripon college will have a fine nucleus with the return of six letter men for basketball practice in the fall. The men who are expected to again earn letters are Capt. Williams; Chris Halverson, Martin, Oliver, Breitrich and Jones. Harry Roeck is the only member of the squad to graduate this year. It will be a difficult task to fill the floor guard position so well handled last season by "Julie" Halverson.

Oleson, Jaspers and Conen have all had intercollegiate experience and should give the regulars plenty of competition for the coming basketball season. Mangen. R. Martin. Mantin and Speitz look like regular varsity material and should put in a strong bid for positions on the Crimson quartet. It has been rumored that Oliver, colossal Ripon giant pivot player plans to attend Minnesota university. At the end of the last season Oliver was one of the mainstays on the Crimson five.

Chris Halverson and Martin will undoubtedly return to play their regular positions of forward. Williams. Cohen. Rod Martin and Speitz will be seen holding down the guard positions. It is also probable that Murchie stellar gridiron star may seek a guard position.

Badger Grid Prospects Only Fair For Hardest Schedule In Many Years

Seventeen Lettermen Return, but Greatest Stars of 1927 Are Lost to Team

Madison — With the first football drill of the 1928 season carded for exactly eight weeks from Saturday Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite has been lining up his material for the strenuous season that his eleven is to face.

Faced with one of the stiffest schedules in the country and almost certainly the most strenuous array of foes that a Wisconsin team has ever faced, the Badgers will need every bit of power they are able to muster.

The Badger mentor will have at his call for the first drill seventeen lettermen with a possibility of another being eligible at the end of the summer session. While the number appears as a large one, the array of talent is not as formidable as it might be, and taken into balance with the losses sustained by graduation, the Badgers are none too well set.

FIVE STARS GONE

The most serious loss was, of course, Captain "Toad" Crofoot, doughty little quarterback who was without a doubt the mainspring and sparkplug of the eleven last fall. A veteran of three seasons, Crofoot will most certainly be missed this fall. Then in the line, Von Bremer will be missing from his guard post where he held a similar position to Crofoot in the backfield. Wilson, a reliable center, Sykes, a guard of experience, and Cameron, the best Badger wing last fall, will also be listed among the missing.

To offset these losses, Thistlethwaite will have the following men. Captain Rube Wagner and Stan Pinish, his running mate, will return to handle the lions share of the tackle jobs. The duo were as good as any pair in the Big Ten last fall and they will be the mainstays of the line this fall. Hugo Larry Shoemaker will be back for his pivot berth with McKaskle, Parks, and Conner as the guards. Ketelaar, and Gottstein, both tackles, should again prove capable understudies to Wagner and Binish.

Jim Davies, Ed Ziese, Ebert Warren and possibly Mike Welch will be available for the wings. Welch has scholastic difficulties at present but is certain he will rid himself of the burden and he set for his final year on the Badger Varsity.

Among the ball toters to be back in the fold, Rebholz and Louie Smith, a pair of sturdy fullbacks with a year of good experience will be back, who shared the quarterback past with Captain Crofoot last fall, will report for his second season while Frank Cuisinier and Gene Rose are a pair of halfbacks who should reach their best this coming fall.

MOHARDT INELIGIBLE

Clif Conry and Reg Stevens, a center and guard respectively, who won the "aWa" awards will also return. One other hard blow to the eleven was the loss of young Pat Mohardt, a fine prospect in the backfield.

The array looks formidable enough but with the schedule, these men and at least two dozen more hopefuls from the remain of the reporting squad will be necessary to round out an eleven that will be able to stand the gaff of the tough schedule.

Such elevens as Notre Dame, Cornell and North Dakota to be met in a double bill, Purdue, Michigan, Alabama, Chicago, Iowa, and Minnesota met on successive Saturdays, is more than an acid test for any coach and his eleven in the country.

GATE CRASHERS TRY NEW RUSE TO GET IN

Order Complimentary Tickets for King of Afghanistan

Paris—(AP)—The gate crashers union and free passes customers have been driven to desperation by the announcement of the French Tennis Federation that "complimentaries were cancelled for Davis Cup Challenge Round," set for July 27th.

But the resources of the crashers' ingenuity have not been found wanting and a new dodge was discovered.

Dr. Cellet, president of the organizing committee, received the following letter, typewritten on the stationery of one of the leading hotels:

"King Amanullah of Afghanistan presents his compliments to the French Tennis Federation and would be grateful for four tickets to the tennis matches at Auteuil beginning July 27th. The King has returned to Paris incognito and tickets may be sent to this hotel."

Desires expressed by Kings are still commands in republican France and the tickets were duly sent.

They were also duly numbered and identified. The identification of bearers is looked forward to when they present the tickets at the gate.

SONG SHOWS HOW AL SMITH STANDS WITH THE VOTERS

Hopes to Draw Support of Those from All Classes in Large Cities

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of a series of stories rounding up the political situation to date.

* * *

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—"Al's Our Pal" is the name of a new song which probably will tire many of us before the campaign is over.

But heaven only knows how many persons will vote on that theory. Hoover probably wishes he knew how many voters consider Al as their "pal."

"Al" is a new sort of a candidate. The last two presidents had certain types of political "it," as they say in the movies. Harding was advertised as "just folks" and Coolidge was cheered as just plain, ordinary Cal, who had worked on a farm and never put on any airs. Ordinary people probably trusted them more than they trusted bigger men like Wilson, Hughes and John Davis.

HAS BIG APPEAL

But now here's Al. The appeal of men like Harding and Coolidge went to the great middle class. Smith is going to draw votes from another class which ordinarily doesn't give a whoop about presidential elections. Boorblacks, truck drivers, barbers, waitresses, elevator operators, taxi drivers, cops, cabaret dancers and probably most laboring men will throw him the bulk of their support. These are mostly city folks.

Hoover probably will beat him on the farms. Most of the foreign extraction vote is expected to go for Smith. Tammany never has high hatted the immigrants.

We get back to the white collar boys and the middle class vote, so-called. There, Smith and Hoover will have to fight it out. This vote probably will decide the election. The cities and towns are full of it. Whether Al's personality will get these folks all singing "The Sidewalks of New York" by November or whether most of them will admit they can't sing and vote for a candidate without any song, no one knows yet. It's a large order for Al.

IS "ONE OF US"

Can he get to the people of the nation as he has to the people of New York? Will that "he's one of us" stuff do him enough good now and can he use that remarkable political sixth sense of his to meet national scale requirements?

Indications are that he will especially undertake to sell the new voters. There will be several millions voting this year for either the first or second time. Their political habits in presidential years aren't yet fixed. No question that Al has a drag with the younger set. How much?

Current information is that he will employ the tactics that have always won for him to date. He's going to lay off the bunk and "talk down" to us. Nothing abstruse about Smith's campaign speeches. Easy to understand what he means.

Al has always been a politician. Hoover isn't, though he has learned an awful lot about politics in the last eight years. Question: Granting that Al can put his long political experience to good use, will the mere fact that he is a politician and Hoover isn't be taken into conscious or unconscious consideration by the voters?

Most of us are credited with distrusting politicians. How many of us will favor Hoover simply because he isn't? Roughly speaking, Roosevelt was a politician, Taft wasn't, Wilson wasn't, Hughes wasn't, Harding was. Coolidge was. Hoover isn't, and Smith is.

THROWS HARPOON

Al has always had a dangerous faculty of making monkeys of his opponents—Hearst, young Teddy Roosevelt and Ogden Mills. Al just bides time until his opponent makes a break and gives him an opening. Then he throws in the harpoon. Perhaps there'll be a break or two in this campaign. Perhaps not. Hoover is big stuff. He probably will remember that his worst peril lies in the possibility that Al might get the country laughing at him.

On the other hand, Al may have a bad time with the "respectable" vote. That is, with the sort of people who will tell you he isn't really quite the man, personally and socially, that one would be proud of in the White House. Without knowing anything about it, they'll ask "What real gent ever wore a brown derby?" They didn't see that Al Smith New York Tammany delegation of socially prominent, well manicured, prosperous, quiet boys and girls sent down to Houston to impress the party that there were others than roughnecks in the New York Democracy.

Smith doubtless will have sense enough to keep some of his more offensively noisy supporters bound and gagged. At least, they were kept from making any bad breaks in Houston and the Smith steam roller was operated so gently as to leave a minimum of hard feelings among the opposition.

The Smith campaign organization ought to be the best the Democrats have had in many years. The best things Smith and his friends do is to organize, campaign and get out the vote. Carefully picked missionaries will be circulating through the country from now on. Smith is going to know just where to hit the hardest and just where to soft pedal.

No one will be better informed from week to week of Smith's actual chances of carrying this state, that state and all of them together than Smith and his board of strategy.

New Evangelical Methods Bring Buddhism To Europe

London—London, metropolis of a world empire, is beginning to realize that it is also a metropolis of religious enterprises. Buddhism has established an outpost in this center of Christianity, and the Buddhists are planning to erect a monastery where translations of the holy writings will be made and where the precepts of Buddha's teachings will be explained to English-speaking people.

For some time there has been an active Buddhist order in London known as the British Mahabodhi Society. This issues a monthly magazine known as the "British Buddhist."

But now a more active campaign is to be started. Parawehera Vajiragnana, Hegoda, Nandasara and Dehigaspe Pannasara, Buddhist monks, have arrived in London to take part in this bigger program. Subscriptions are being raised all over the world for the construction of a monastery which will take the form of the one in Hyderabad in India.

To the monk Vajiragnana I expressed my surprise at this militant move on the part of the Buddhists. I always had understood it was the one great world religion which did not seek to secure proselytes.

"You are always wrong," said the priest with his gentle, slow smile. "Buddhism has, to use your western Christianity expression, always sought to evangelize the world. But Buddhism always has sought to do it by word of truth and not by the sword of power.

"It has sought to do it by bringing balm to men's hearts, not by bringing suffering. Buddhism has never been guilty of religious wars or religious persecutions. It is because of this that you westerns think we do not seek out men to bring unto them our truth. We do.

"It is written in our sacred books: 'Go ye, O Bhikkhus, and wander forth for the gain of the many, for the welfare of the many, in compassion for the world, for the good, for the gain, for the welfare of Gods and men. Proclaim, O Bhikkhus, the Doctrine glorious, preach ye a life of holiness, perfect and pure.'

"Also there are some among you who think that Buddhism is a dying religion because there are only some 12,000,000 believers in India, the land of its birth.

"But there are over 150,000,000 Buddhists in the world. Over half the population of Ceylon is Buddhist; a large proportion of the people of Burmah are Buddhists; there are millions in China and in Papan and Siam the overwhelming bulk of the population follows the light of our religion.

"In the western world we have foundations in Germany and Switzerland and now are entering in earnest upon our work in England. Our priests, like those of Roman Catholicism, are celibates. In our monastery here we will devote a very large amount of time to translating our holy books from Pali into English.

"We will conduct classes where all who seek may learn. We will have Buddhist services on feast days and holy days. The monastery will be a retreat of peace and calm where East and West shall meet—Kipling to the contrary notwithstanding."

Twice up Washington Monument on a Doughnut

This is an extract from the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal:

"For a man of average weight to walk from the bottom to the top of the Washington Monument would require an extra heat production of 80 calories. The energy expended in this seemingly considerable bit of exercise may be completely replaced by eating less than one-half a doughnut."

Downyflake Doughnuts besides being nutritious and wholesome are equally delicious. Only the finest, purest ingredients obtainable are used to produce Downyflake Doughnuts. They come to you untouched by human hands, boxed, with all the goodness kept in.

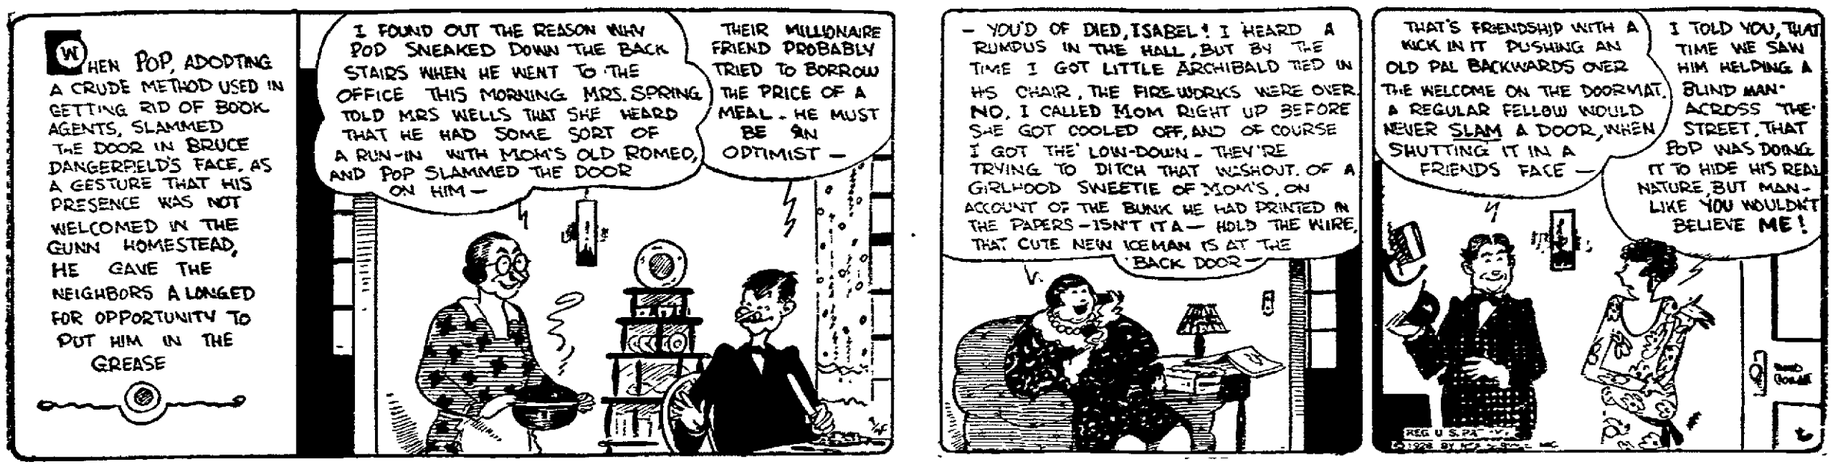
MOM'N POP — Mom is Fed Up — By Cowan



WHEN POP, ADOPTING A CRUDE METHOD USED IN GETTING RID OF BOOK AGENTS, SLAMMED THE DOOR IN BRUCE DANGERFIELD'S FACE, AS A GESTURE THAT HIS PRESENCE WAS NOT WELCOMED IN THE GUNN HOMESTEAD, HE GAVE THE NEIGHBORS A LONGED FOR OPPORTUNITY TO PUT HIM IN THE GREASE
I FOUND OUT THE REASON WHY POP SNEAKED DOWN THE BACK STAIRS WHEN HE WENT TO THE OFFICE THIS MORNING. MRS. SPRING TOLD MRS WELLS THAT SHE HEARD THAT HE HAD SOME SORT OF A RUN-IN WITH MOM'S OLD ROMEO, AND POP SLAMMED THE DOOR ON HIM—
THEIR MILLIONAIRE FRIEND PROBABLY TRIED TO BORROW THE PRICE OF A MEAL - HE MUST BE AN OPTIMIST—
—YOU'D OF DIED, ISABEL! I HEARD A RUMPUS IN THE HALL, BUT BY THE TIME I GOT LITTLE ARCHIBALD TIED IN HIS CHAIR, THE FIRE-WORKS WERE OVER. NO, I CALLED MOM RIGHT UP BEFORE SHE GOT COOLED OFF, AND OF COURSE I GOT THE LOW-DOWN - THEY'RE TRYING TO DITCH THAT WASHOUT OF A GIRLHOOD SWEETIE OF MOM'S, ON ACCOUNT OF THE BUNK HE HAD PRINTED IN THE PAPERS—ISN'T IT A— HOLD THE WIRE, THAT CUTE NEW ICEMAN IS AT THE BACK DOOR—
THAT'S FRIENDSHIP WITH A KICK IN IT PUSHING AN OLD PAL BACKWARDS OVER THE WELCOME ON THE DOORMAT. A REGULAR FELLOW WOULD NEVER SLAM A DOOR, WHEN SHUTTING IT IN A FRIENDS FACE—
I TOLD YOU, THAT TIME WE SAW HIM HELPING A BLIND MAN ACROSS THE STREET. THAT POP WAS DOING IT TO HIDE HIS REAL NATURE, BUT MAN-LIKE YOU WOULDN'T BELIEVE ME!

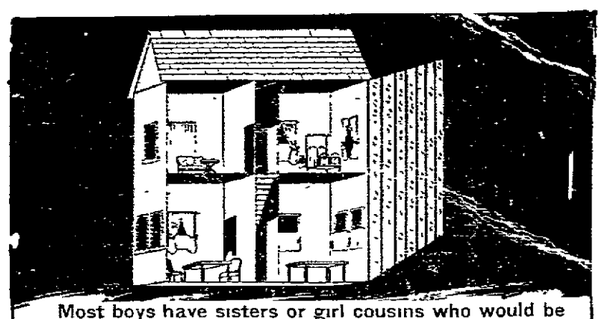
A Doll's House



Most boys have sisters or girl cousins who would be glad to have a doll's house. The one shown above can be made from boxes, with one side left open to swing on a wire hinge. One box can serve as the frame, another the partitions. We can cut out windows and doors and paper the interior with some old rolls that are usually left around the house.

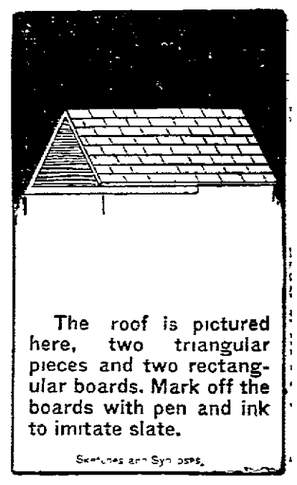
The design above shows how to cut out the sides of the stairs. Nail tiny strips across each stair.



The roof is pictured here, two triangular pieces and two rectangular boards. Mark off the boards with pen and ink to imitate slate.

Sketches and Synopses.

If we put in glass windows, the simplest way to fix them in position is with tacks at the bottom and top of the frames. The doors can be provided with hinges by using cloth or thin leather strips, glued into place. If you wish, you can paint red and black lines on the outer walls to represent bricks.

DEMOCRATS DESIRE CONGRESS CONTROL

Hope for Seats from States Where G. O. P. Senators Want Reelection

Albany, N. Y.—(AP)—In their efforts to put Governor Smith in the White House, the Democrats intend to overlook no opportunities to capture control of congress.

The Democratic presidential nominee himself already has discussed the senatorial phase of the question with two senators of his political faith —Tydings of Maryland and Hawes of Missouri—and before long he undoubtedly will be acquainted with the situation as it affects the house of representatives.

Representative "Billy" Oldfield, of Arkansas, one of the war horses in Democratic ranks, is head of the party's congressional campaign committee, whose chief worry is to bring about the election of Democrats to the house.

As they prepare to make their fight to wrest congressional control from the republicans, the Democrats are faced with the necessity of upsetting a minority of 30 in the house. The lineup in the senate during the close of the last session was 47 Republicans, 46 Democrats, one Farmer-Labor and two vacancies.

In all, 33 senatorial seats are at stake in the November elections. Of these the Democrats hold 20, the Republicans 14, and a Farmer-Laborite 1.

In their efforts to build up a Democratic majority in the senate party leaders are hoping to pick up seats in some of the states where Republican senators are up for reelection. In this group are the seats of Cutting of New Mexico; Fess of Ohio; Frazier of North Dakota; Greene of Vermont; Hall of Maine; Howell of Nebraska; Johnson of California; LaFollette of Wisconsin; McLean of Connecticut; Reed of Pennsylvania; Robinson of Indiana and Vandenberg of Michigan, beside the seat formerly held by the late Senator Gooding of Idaho and that claimed by Smith of Illinois.

SCIENCE AND ROMANCE BATTLE OVER KISSING

Madison—(AP)—Science and romance are at odds ends again.

33 RURAL SCHOOLS FAVOR PLANS FOR SINGING TEACHERS

Important Thing Now Is to Get Plan Underway, Superintendent Says

With 33 rural school districts of Outagamie co. in favor of the proposed music plan and more than half of the districts still to report, A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, is making preliminary plans for at least one and possibly more music districts to begin operating this fall term.

Mr. Meating expressed satisfaction with the manner in which the school districts met the proposed plan and said if the experiment in Outagamie-co is successful it is very likely that the plan will be made statewide because state school officials have declared themselves in accord with the idea.

Under the present plan, a trained music supervisor will have charge of between 20 and 25 rural schools. She will visit each school one-half hour per week and will at that time outline the next weeks' work for the regular teacher to carry out. The salary will be paid jointly by the schools. Each district will pay about $90 per year.

"Those who oppose the plan," Mr. Meating said, "give three reasons for their opposition. First, they say the regular teachers are not equipped to teach music; second, they say as all grades are together in a country school it would not be possible to carry out a progressive program with children of the first and eighth grades in the same class; third there is not sufficient time under the present program to teach regular subjects without including music.

In answer to the first argument, Mr. Meating pointed out that the county was not facing any more serious problem with untrained teachers than had the city of Appleton when the music program was inaugurated here. He said plans were being made by Dr. Earl L. Baker, head of the music methods department at Lawrence college, to include a music methods course in the regular curriculum at the Outagamie Rural Normal school at Kaukauna this fall.

With this new course in 3 years all county rural schools will be able to secure teachers equipped to handle regular music work.

To fit the present teachers for the work, plans are being made for a short instructive music course at the teacher's institute before rural schools open, Mr. Meating said, and in addition, the teachers of each district will meet every Saturday with the music supervisor to discuss problems which they must meet.

To meet the second argument, Mr. Meating said that at present the children in rural schools are so woefully lacking in any kind of music training that all can be enrolled in beginners' classes so that they can get the elements of the work. In a few years, he admitted, the problem of separating the students would have to be met but explained that the matter was being carefully studied and when the time was ripe, a solution would be ready.

"The most important thing at present," Mr. Meating said, "is to get the plan under way and find out how it works."

The county school authorities are now rearranging the school program so that the music work can be included without loss of time on other subjects he explained in answer to the third argument, pointing out that it will be possible, under the new program, to teach music and still have sufficient time for all other work.

POLITICAL INTEREST CAUSES REGISTRATIONS

Increased interest in politics, caused by the numerous candidates for county offices, is believed to have caused the heavy registration under the new permanent law. Appleton people are showing considerable interest in registration, according to Carl Becher, city clerk, who also reminds other delinquents to register as soon as possible. Registrations will be accepted by the clerk's office anytime up to the week before the September primary.

GOVERNMENT IS LOSER IN BUSINESS VENTURE

Census of Production in England Shows Employes Have Low Output

A census of production is now being taken in Great Britain and is revealing some astonishing facts that have not heretofore been known with regard to the low output of government employes.

"It is now becoming clear, points out a bulletin issued by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States a copy of which has been forwarded to Kenneth Comott, secretary of the local chamber, why public ownership is almost always an adventure in bankruptcy.

The net output annually in the water works departments is fairly good, $2,545 per worker.

In electrical departments, it is $2,360.

In the building of houses by municipal authorities, it is only $815 per worker.

In dock and harbor departments it is $741 per worker.

And in the street car departments it is only $725.

As the official report says, quite unnecessarily, this did not include any element of profit."

"The cold fact is that the average dock and street car worker receives about $1,640 per year for doing about $740 worth of work.

"Who pays the balance? The taxpayer.

"Naturally, the question arises—if all trade and industry were carried by public departments and if the private taxpayers were wiped out, where would the money come from to pay these deficits?

To better serve the public, our store will remain open Saturday evenings 'til nine o'clock, as usual. Closed Friday evenings at 5:30.

HUNTERS, TRAPPERS MUST WEAR A BUTTON

Madison— (AP) —Every hunter and trapper in the state will have to wear a button this year, according to word from the state conservation commission. The commission has just completed negotiations for 269,000 buttons. Of these 237,000 are resident hunting buttons, 30,000 are resident trapping buttons, and 2,000 include the non-resident hunting and non-resident trapping buttons.

The buttons are green and each one will carry the information, "1928" across the top, then the serial number of the button, then the word "Wisconsin" printed in black letters on a white band across the middle, and then the words "Resident Hunting License" in white letters in the green background across the button.

It is expected that the use of these buttons will facilitate the work of the conservation wardens, just as the wearing of buttons by non-resident fishermen is said to simplify their work now. The buttons will be distributed by the county clerks at the same time the licenses are issued.
